Clergy urged to study hospice

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus Church of Christ minister Phil Morr, a veteran hospice volunteer, is urging other local pastors to take a hospice training session—even if they don't have any desire to become a volunteer.

Morr took the 30-hour training course offered by Arbor Hospice several years ago and found it was a good extension of his ministerial studies.

"As a minister you often have to face dying church members or grieving family situations. This course offered me a new outlook on bereavement, as we visited the back rooms of funeral homes and got to talk to a lot of health care specialists," Morr said.

While Morr is asked to assist terminal patients with the spiritual side of their lives...he has found the most important thing that was stressed was "learning to listen" to the patients.

Morr and his wife, Pat, were part of the large number of Arbor Hospice volunteers who were honored recently for their many hours of service to the dying and their families.

The Morrises have served the Romulus church several times since 1960, while also being called upon to move several times to England and Australia to serve church emergencies there.

When first being assigned to a patient, Morr said he tries to take on the role of a compassionate friend.

"I let him (the patient) open up to me and let the spirit guide us in our relationship," he said. "I have found many times it is the family members, who need our assistance more than the dying themselves...particularly in this age of the dysfunctional family."

Morr said he feels many times he is called on to exhibit "damage control" in family situations, since financial pressures and other crises have all but severed communication between various family members.

"We serve the dying as a team," Morr said, "and that team includes a nurse, social worker, volunteers and others."

"Many times as volunteers we find the patients open up more freely to us than the professional staff," he said. "But we are trained to share the deepest issues and concerns with other team members."

While Morr is matched mostly with male patients, his wife, Pat, is called upon to serve many women patients.

Pat Morr said hospice volunteers are taught not to be judgmental even in cases where an excessive life style is one of the reasons for the fatal affliction.

The Morrises also find it helpful that they can share hospice volunteer experiences and encourage each other especially when emotions get tough, they said.

Pat Morr said that having a family member face death is a strange feeling for most people. Having the hospice team in the home "establishes a

Financial probe is ordered at 39th court

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

The court administrator of the 34th District Court and one of her assistants are currently off duty, but remain on the payroll, while agents of the Michigan Supreme Court sift through the court financial records.

Presiding Judge William J. Szlinis confirmed that Supreme Court financial agents are currently inside the Romulus-based court, but said it would be "erroneous to say the court officers have been suspended or relieved of their duties."

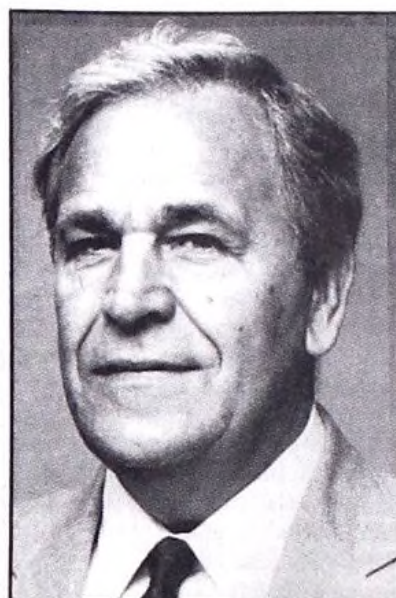

Szlinis said the pair were told that it "was best they were not here" while the current audit is being conducted.

The pair are Court Administrator Nancy L. Schuette and her assistant Tammy Riopelle.

The presiding judge said he did not know how far back the audit was being conducted, or even the entire scope of the examination.

Szlinis, who was named presiding judge in January 1992, said he was being "purposely vague" to questions "because we are in the middle of an audit and I know so little of what actually is transpiring right now."

The presiding judge admits that he notified the Supreme Court of some "undisclosed information" last week and top court representatives immediately took control of the in-house situation.

"While audits happen all the time," Szlinis said, "this is the first one of its type here that I know of."

Carol Bowman, the court director of probation, is currently the acting administrator, Szlinis said.

"I expect no report back this week from the Supreme Court team," Szlinis said, "and I can't guarantee when such a report will be given to me. I would like to hope I would get it next week...but there is nothing concrete at this time that I will."

Once getting the audit information from the Supreme Court probers, Szlinis said, he will set down with his fellow 34th District Judges Henry Zaborowski and Felix W. Rogalle and decide what action, if any, needs to be taken.

Szlinis was appointed to the 34th District Court in 1989 replacing the retiring Judge James Stone.

Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally said Friday that she had been informed of the action at the court, but said any official statements should come from Szlinis.

McAnally said obviously the city of Romulus is concerned about any financial matters involving the court, since the building itself is owned and located on Romulus property. She also reported the court is attempted right now to amend the budget.

A high-ranking police department official said he had not been informed officially of any action at the court.

Officials from the communities served by the court said they hope to receive answers to the following questions when the audit is made public:

- Have purchases been made without competitive bidding?
- Are accounting procedures being used without adequate checks and balances?
- To what extent have court funds been used to pay for trips by judges?
- Have court auctions been scheduled so as to restrict public access to them?
- Are funds unaccounted for in court accounts?

Teen wins movie audition

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Jennifer Jones, a freshman at Romulus High School, loves to challenge the odds.

Last Saturday the odds were almost 2,000 to one against her in her spirited effort to win a role in Whoopi Goldberg's upcoming "Sister Act II" movie.

The multi-talented Jones said she was first alerted to the "cattle call" opportunity for the movie extras by her dance teacher, Judy Thompson.

"She told me I possibly could benefit greatly from the experience," Jones said.

The 15-year-old said she later called her grandfather, James Jones of Detroit, and told him she had to be at a Southfield elementary school by 1 p.m. on Saturday.

When Jones arrived she found about 2,000 teens already there. Goldberg's staff called out for those who "could both sing and act."

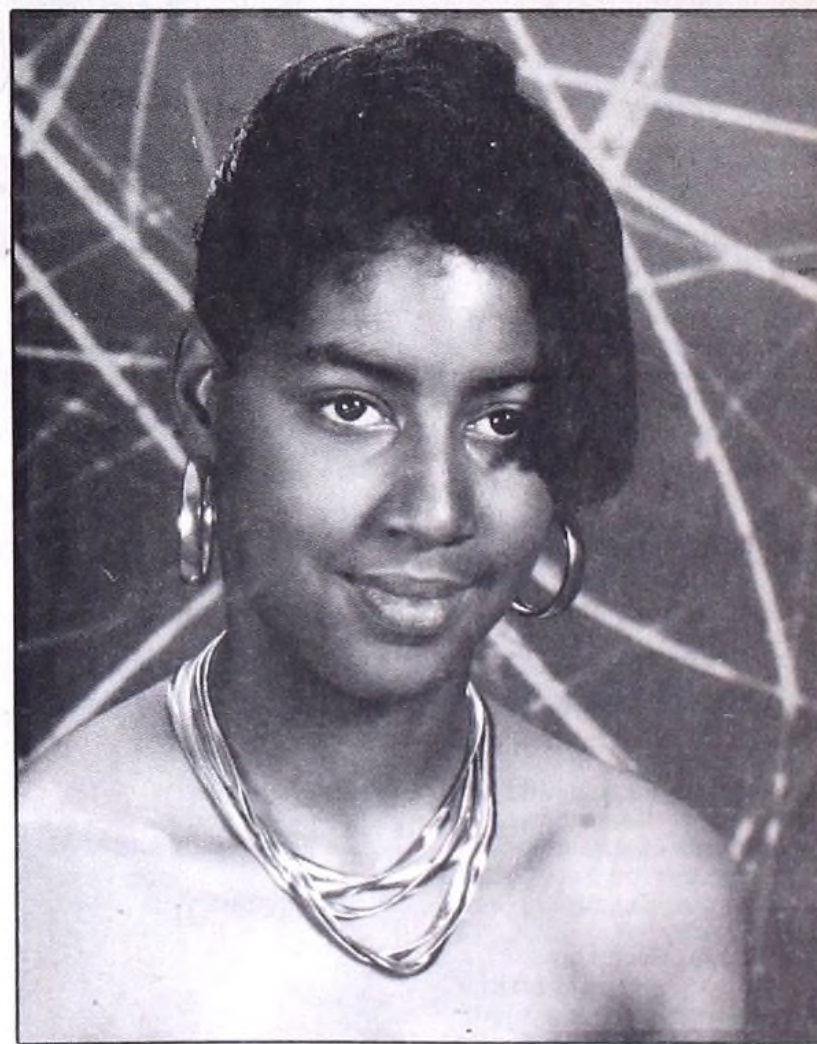

While she has never acted before, Jones said, she read the script over and gave it her best.

"The script dealt basically with the impending closing of a school and a teacher's resignation prior to that closing. My part includes an argument with the teacher asking her to stay on," Jones said.

The Romulus student was asked to appear Tuesday for screen tests at the Marriott Detroit Airport Hotel. "But leave your earrings home," they told her.

Jones said she was urged to wear clothes similar to those she wore at the tryout—black cotton bell bottom pants and a brightly-colored blouse.

The only item of dress they

frowned on were her large gold-colored earrings, she said.

Jones, who hopes Whoopi likes her style, says she enjoyed the original Sister Act movie that proved such a box office hit last summer.

Jones, who lives with her guardian Renee Biggs, also enjoys gospel music and has sung the choir at Mount Hebron Baptist Church for the past five years.

Last September she also competed in the Apollo Live of Michigan contest and finished in third place.

Asked what she would say to Whoopi if she could talk to her privately, she smiled and said, "I'd tell her, I like your hair."

Jones, daughter of Norma Jones, has post-graduate dreams, too. After finishing her studies she hopes to become an architect or an engineer.

Tornado sirens to be tested

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Tornado sirens will be sounded in Romulus at 10 a.m. March 31 and at 1 p.m. April 3.

Margaret A. Leduc, emergency management coordinator, said the city will be conducting a test of the cable system for the emergency broadcast system at these times.

All televisions in Romulus (with cable service) will switch for 15 seconds to the government station for an emergency testing message, she said.

While this will be only a test, in the event of an emergency the government station will have a message that will indicate what citizens are to do.

Residents of Romulus are urged to learn the difference between a tornado watch and tornado warning, Leduc said.

A tornado watch is a period of time when emergency spokespersons keep the public updated on the path of storms that could contain tornadoes. During these times, residents should secure small items (garbage cans and bicycles) by placing them inside a building so that they do not become deadly missiles during high-wind periods, Leduc advised.

The public should also keep children under close supervision during such tornado watch periods and should stay close to a radio or television for updated information on the storm, she said.

A "tornado or severe storm warning" is issued when a storm has already been sighted in the area. Warnings are for much smaller geographical areas and persons in those areas should seek shelter immediately.

In homes, parents should gather the family and seek safety in the basement away from any windows. If no basement is available, residents are urged to move to the center of the house, in closets or under heavy furniture, Leduc said.

In mobile home areas, residents should move to a prearranged shelter area, she continued.

When driving a car, stop the vehicle and don't try to outrun the tornado. Leave the vehicle and seek safety in a basement, ditch or ravine away from the car and trees, Leduc said.

After the storm passes, check out the vehicle or building for damage—particularly electrical or gas line damage. Stay out of damaged buildings until they are deemed safe, Leduc stressed.

Check any food closely before eating for particles of glass or debris.

Home safety tips are now available at City Hall or the Romulus Library.

State funds allocated for road widening project in area

A $759,000 state grant to the Wayne County Road Commission will be utilized to widen Eureka Road and help create some 200 new jobs this summer.

The grant award is being made available by the Michigan Department of Transportation Economic Development Fund, according to state senator William Faust (D-Westland) and state representative Gregory Pitoniak (D-Taylor).

The grant should help create new jobs in firms who plan to expand due to the Metropolitan Airport expansion, the two local lawmakers stressed.

"I am happy to announce this grant that, together with the Metro expansion, will help create jobs and increase economic opportunity for businesses in our community."

"I am glad to see money going to create jobs for Michigan citizens," Faust said. Pitoniak, whose district includes the city of Romulus, echoed Faust's sentiments. "This road improvement project proves that improving our infrastructure not only creates jobs in the companies doing the road work, but also creates long lasting jobs for the businesses in the area. "I am elated to see Wayne County receive its fair share of state dollars to do this work," Pitoniak stressed.

According to state and county officials, the Eureka Road widening will allow easier access for two food processing firms, Caterair International and Sky Chefs, and for Aztec Manufacturing, a precision machining operation.

The food processing firms provide packaged meals to airlines using the Metro Airport.

According to a press release from the local legislators, by 1995, Caterair International plans to hire an additional 110 employees and Sky Chefs is looking at an additional 60 employees to its present staff.

Aztec Manufacturing will also expand their operation and plans to employ an additional 21 employees.

ROMULUS NEWS DIGEST

Abused children recognition sought

Since 1988 a committee composed of Romulus firefighters and members of the Metro Airport Fire Department have sought to aid others.

That year the committee sponsored a softball game and the proceeds went to the Flight 255 Memorial Fund.

Since then the MARCH committee (Metro Airport-Romulus Firefighters Charity Host) has been playing softball to collect funds for the Abused Children's Fund.

The games in the tournament have been played at Elmer Johnson Park with members of local fire departments taking part.

Since the tournament has been so successful, Julie A. Wojtylko, MARCH secretary, said the group has contacted the State Lottery Charitable Gaming Division to obtain authorization to conduct a raffle in conjunction with the annual tournament.

Wojtylko said the lottery unit informed them that the Romulus City Council must issue a resolution recognizing them as a non-profit organization.

Such recognition was offered by members of the city council Monday night.

Michigan Week parade slated

The 1993 annual Romulus Michigan Week parade will begin at 6 p.m. May 21 at City Hall.

Applications to appear in the parade are now available from the Romulus Michigan Week Festival Committee. They must be mailed back to Richard Donahey, past Romulus Rotary Club president, in care of 47765 Denton Road, Belleville, Mich. 48111-2201.

City schedules budget workshops

Members of the city council have scheduled two budget work study sessions to review the fiscal year budgets for city departments at 6 p.m. April 26 and May 3.

In addition a public hearing on the preliminary budget has been set for 7 p.m. May 10.

The new budget will take effect on July 1.

sense that everything is under control."

Recently she was servicing a dying woman who kept her sense of humor going strong right up until the end.

"When we have to sever relationships before a patient dies," she said, "we have been urged to give a fond adieu to our patient."

"In this case we made a big issue of the fact that Phil and I were being called to help out in England for a short period of time," she said.

"And my patient still didn't lose her composure or her sense of humor. She smiled at me as I left for the last time, and called out 'Don't forget to say hello to the queen for me!'"

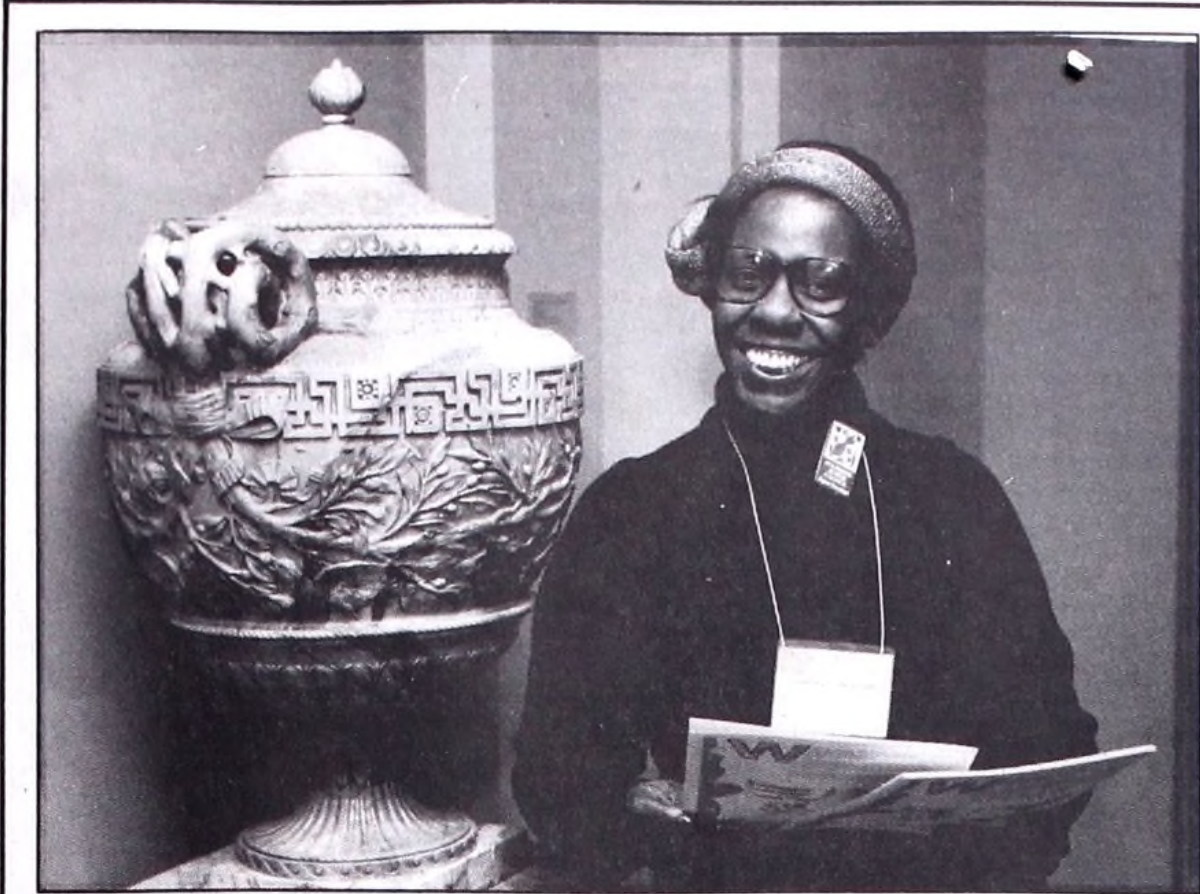

"My replacement told me the woman died on her first visit. Since we know the biggest fear patients have is dying alone, the new volunteer was glad she was there."

Recently Pat Morr said she also got to see another unique service supplied by Arbor Hospice-art therapy.

In this particular case, she explained, she met a 5-year-old girl who was having an extremely hard time accepting her grandmother's passing.

The girl was taken to a hospice unit and met with several other children and an art therapist. There the children were successfully working out their grief through their art work.

Further information about being a hospice volunteer can be obtained by calling Doreen Vivyan, director of Arbor Hospice volunteers, at 1-313-677-0500.

Autistic child greeted by vice president's wife

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Dustin Fike of Romulus recently returned home from Washington, D.C., where he met "second lady" Tipper Gore.

Fike, son of Mary Fike, was one of 13 autistic students from Burger School in Garden City to visit the national capital earlier this month.

Fike, 10, and his classmates left Romulus for the capital on March 8 and arrived a day later. They visited many sites there during their three-day stay.

They not only were given the chance to shake Tipper Gore's hand, Mrs. Fike said, but some had the chance to actually sit at Vice President Al Gore's desk.

But the greatest memories young Fike carried home with him, she said, were the visits to the Air and Space Museum and the Hall of Flags at the Kennedy Center.

"Dustin has four or five Atlases and has memorized almost all the flags in the world as well as the world map," his mother said, and "he feels that Albania is his favorite country...although he cannot give a reason why."

He also loves all types of professional sports...and in particular the Chicago Bulls and the Seattle Seahawks. His intense memory allows him to remember scores of past World Series or Super Bowl games with ease.

Fike said she feels the Rainman movie starring Dustin Hoffman, provided a good image of what it is like to be afflicted with autism. But unlike the "Raymond" character that Hoffman portrayed, Fike is not as severely afflicted and it is strongly believed that he will develop a semi-independent life style as he goes to adulthood.

Thaddeus Nelson, a Westland patrol officer with less than two years experience, was reported in good condition at the University of Michigan Medical Center early this week after firefighters and rescue workers from several local departments toiled feverishly to cut the trapped and bleeding officer from his crushed patrol car.

Westland Traffic Bureau investigator Lynda Cox said Nelson and a second officer, Thomas Hissong, were responding separately to an emergency call in the southeast portion of the city, reportedly a fight, around 5:53 p.m. Traveling at an undetermined speed on southbound Henry

Dustin Fike

A free lance writer, Gretchen E. Madick, recently claimed that Fike has been dealt three lucky cards in his young life, his grandmother, Lorraine; his mother, Mary; and his veteran teacher, Barbara Bayson.

At Burger School, efforts to work with autistic children are conducted one skill level at a time.

Since autistic people many times are afflicted with an intense desire of locking their life on the "me" level, Fike's grandmother continues to work with him on other people's needs.

For instance, Lorraine, has taught him to offer sandwiches to others, when he prepares one for himself.

His grandmother was instrumental in Fike's early diagnosis (when he was about 18 months old), and that discovery probably has helped him make early advancements with his disability.

While Fike can easily become bored, he also has a high intelligence level.

Even though he had little interest in communicating with people at the age of 3, he was already reading the telephone book.

Ruff, between Van Born and Annapolis roads, and with Hissong directly behind him, Nelson apparently lost control of his patrol car coming out of a tight S-curve bordering the Westland Meadows mobile home park.

Nelson's car, Cox said, hit the northbound Henry Ruff curb, struck a small mud embankment launching Nelson's blue and white Chevrolet Caprice, passenger side first, into a large tree, smashing the vehicle and literally wrapping the officer in a steel cocoon. Nelson's patrol car then rolled into a steep 10-foot creek and came to rest on the driver's side door with the unconscious and bleeding officer inside. The force of the crash catapulted car parts and shattered glass into backyards of homes.

Rescue workers from Westland, Wayne and Inkster were forced to use a hydraulic extractor tool (the Hurst "Jaws of Life") to pry the wreckage

It was reported that if it wasn't for the fact he was reading the phone book, his family wouldn't have known that he could even speak at that time.

His grandmother remembers that he would often mumble as a small child and it wasn't until he was about 5 years old that he actually began to speak to others.

Autistic children when undiagnosed, often are considered retarded because of their low IQ test results.

While the family lived in the state of Washington, his mother explained, Fike was transferred from a class for the retarded to a so called "normal" class.

But since autistic children don't like change or noise and have little patience, Fike did not mix well with his classmates.

"It was just too hard for him," his mother said, "he couldn't handle it and often came home with tears in his eyes."

His classmates loved to tease him, his mother said, some times stealing his lunch and other times doing other things that offended him.

Fike has a temper, as most autistic children do, his mother explained, but things have greatly improved for him since he arrived at Burger School.

Autism has helped the family in other ways too, his mother said, as Fike can remember travel directions much better than she.

His mother said, that when taken to a store, Fike quickly learns where all items are and shows you the exact spots during your next visit.

Fike said that while her son looks like a normal kid on the block, she hopes that people will slowly become more understanding of individuals with disabilities by associating with him as time goes on.

apart. The effort lasted two hours and a seriously injured Nelson was later pulled conscious from the mangled car. Medical technicians radioed the U of M lifeflight for assistance and the maize and blue helicopter landed on Henry Ruff for the 10-minute emergency run to the Ann Arbor hospital. Cox said Nelson suffered a dislocated shoulder, a concussion and a sizable gash across the back of his head. He is expected to recover fully.

An area resident passing the scene within seconds of the accident said Hissong took quick action to save his fellow officer's life when it appeared Nelson was choking to death on blood. The witness also said the Henry Ruff S-curve is "known to be dangerous."

Board incumbents to seek new terms

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Veteran Romulus School Board member Daniel R. Bales, who is completing his third four-year term, has picked up election petitions for a new term, according to the office of the city clerk.

Bales, who has served as president, secretary and treasurer, was the first of the two incumbents to pick up such petitions.

The second incumbent whose term runs out this spring, Sandra F. Langley, said she plans to pick up her petitions soon.

Langley also is finishing her 12th consecutive year on the board. Earlier she had been appointed to finish the last few months of another board member's term.

Persons wishing to challenge the two incumbents can pick up election petitions at the city clerk's office in City Hall. The election is slated for June 14.

Scholar turns down trip to Russia

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

Nancy Susi, district coordinator of the Romulus Schools gifted program, has turned down an offer to visit Russia this May to share her ideas and strategies in working with gifted children.

Susi informed Assistant Superintendent Dr. Terrell LeCesne that while she was excited to be selected, the opportunity just came at the wrong time in her career.

"Being a single parent and having two children still at home, plus the projected cost of being part of such a venture (approximately $5,000 for each U.S. delegate) blocks my considering such participation at this time of my career," she said.

Susi had received the invitation letter early in February urging her to join the "Citizen Ambassador Program of People to People International" trip to Russia beginning May 7.

The letter said, "Recent events in the former Soviet Union have been historic and enlightening. The Russians have demonstrated clearly and decisively that their movement towards democratization will continue."

It continued, "At the invitation of our Russian counterparts, the Citizen Ambassador program is developing a delegation of gifted educators to visit Moscow, Novisibirsk and St. Petersburg."

Dr. Dorothy Sisk of Lamar University in Beaumont, Tex., who is to be the leader of the 30-member group, invited Susi to join the group because of her "background, experience and expertise."

Susi, who has been director in Romulus for two years, formerly served as a teacher in an Ann Arbor school, has a gifted son and daughter and has written a 646 page resource book on gifted programs.

City accepts house

Members of the city council officially accepted the donation of the old Kingsley House from owners Eugene and Sylvia Perecki Monday night.

The effort was the first step toward city ownership of the historic home. The city ultimately has plans to move the duplex dwelling currently located at 37424 Huron River Drive to the historical area on Hunt Street, between Goddard and Bibbins.

The council members set aside block grant money to pay for the planned move.

At some future date, the city also hopes to move the Bird House, owned by a former city banker, to the same area.

Police are praised

Two Romulus policemen, Detective Sgt. Gordon Malaniak and Sgt. Emmet Barnes, were cited recently by the Federal Bureau of Investigation for their assistance in the arrest of a local bank robbery suspect.

Special Agent Hal N. Helterhoff said the car operated by the suspect Curtis Lee Williams was spotted by Romulus police on Jan. 22, 1993 as it was traveling on Middlebelt Road route to Westland.

Williams was arrested during a "felony stop", Helterhoff said, and later confessed to 12 bank robberies.

By that time, Helterhoff said, Romulus, Westland, Dearborn Heights, Southgate and Taylor police departments had joined the FBI and Michigan State Police in the multiple investigation.

"Because of the commitment, dedication and professionalism set forth by these investigators," Helterhoff said, "Williams was identified, located and arrested."

Westland police, the witness added, "acted belligerent" during the ordeal erecting canvas barricades to block the rescue scene and ordering television cameras to be turned off.

"Many of the officers weren't calm," the witness said, "but I guess when it's one of your own that's the way people are, especially if it looks like he (Nelson) might die."

The scene Monday looked like a small airplane wreckage with smashed tree limbs, discarded rubber gloves and medical equipment and blood-soaked gauze lying near the creek. A dark bloodstain on a concrete sewer pipe was a grim reminder of the seriousness of the mishap.

"Our accident unit is still investigating the incident," Cox added. "And until that time, I won't speculate as to what Officer Nelson was doing" when the patrol car crashed.

NEW DEVELOPMENT IN ARCH SUPPORTS

If you've worn arch supports in the past to help you walk and move normally, you'll be surprised to learn that the new "arch supports" aren't really arch supports at all.

New foot supports have been developed by a field of medical technology called biomechanics. The new science deals with human motion and can "custom-make" any device you need to support your foot. Some people may still refer to them as "arch supports" or inserts. They enable you to walk normally without aches and pains.

Your podiatrist will make an impression or cast of your feet and send these casts to the laboratory with a detailed prescription. The laboratory then determines more precisely, where your foot function needs improvement. When the new orthotics are made, instead of plain old supporting arches, you'll have an orthotic device that will allow your feet and legs to function normally again.

ATTENTION MEN OVER 40 — GET TESTED FOR PROSTATE CANCER!

by Surendra Kumar, M.D.

If you are a man over 40, or if you have a husband or loved one over 40, read this column. First, the bad news. Prostate cancer is the most common tumor and second-leading cause of cancer death in men — second only to lung cancer.

Now for the good news . . .

Prostate cancer is highly curable, if detected early.

At first, the tumor in the prostate grows slowly. But once it reaches a certain size it begins to grow faster. Eventually, the tumor will grow outside of the prostate and become life-threatening.

If the tumor is detected before it reaches the critical size, it can easily be cured.

Two simple tests are all you need

You should be screened for prostate cancer once a year if you are:

- over 40 with a family history of prostate cancer
- over 40 and have had a vasectomy
- over 40 and an African American
- 50 years old or older

Prostate screening consists of two tests: The Digital Rectal Examination (DRE) performed by a urologist, and the Prostate Specific Antigen test (PSA), a blood test. Studies have shown that using both tests together can detect most cases of prostate cancer early.

If one of the tests proves abnormal, the physician will perform an ultrasound, which will detect and locate the tumor. A biopsy also can be performed with the ultrasound.

Don't wait for symptoms

Don't wait for any prostate cancer symptoms before getting tested. There are usually no warning signs during its earlier, more curable stages. But, if you notice any of the following symptoms, see your doctor immediately:

- weak or interrupted flow of urine
- inability to urinate, difficulty to begin urinating, or the need to urinate frequently, especially at night
- blood in the urine or semen
- continuing pain in the lower back, pelvis, or upper thighs

NOTICE OF SPECIAL ELECTION
MONDAY, APRIL 5, 1993
WAYNE-WESTLAND COMMUNITY SCHOOLS
COUNTY OF WAYNE, MICHIGAN

TO THE QUALIFIED ELECTORS OF SAID SCHOOL DISTRICT:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a special election will be held in Wayne-Westland Community Schools, County of Wayne, Michigan, on Monday, April 5, 1993, between the hours of 7:00 a.m. and 8:00 p.m. prevailing Eastern Time.

The following proposals will be submitted to the electors at the election on Monday, April 5, 1993:

Millage Renewal Proposal

As a renewal of an increase previously approved by the electors which has expired, shall the limitation on the amount of taxes which may be imposed on taxable property in Wayne-Westland Community Schools, County of Wayne, Michigan, be increased by Six Dollars ($6.00) per Thousand Dollars (6 mills) of the state equalized valuation on all taxable property in the school district for a period of three (3) years, the years 1993 to 1996, inclusive, in order to provide funds for operating purposes of the school district? The millage rate approved by this proposal will be levied against the final state equalized value of property in the district for 1993 without reduction under article 9, section 31, of the state constitution.

Proposal To Levy Full Authorized Rate

Shall Wayne-Westland Community Schools, County of Wayne, Michigan, be authorized to impose ad valorem property taxes in the year 1993 at the full rates authorized by law and voter approval on the final equalized value of property in the district without regard to the limitation imposed by Michigan compiled laws section 211.34d and article 9, section 31 of the state constitution?

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that the following statements have been received from the County Treasurer of the County of Wayne as to previously voted increases in the constitutional tax rate limitation affecting taxable property in the School District, to wit:

"I, Raymond J. Wojtowicz, County Treasurer of Wayne County, Michigan, do hereby certify that, as of February 10, 1993, the total of all voted increases in excess of the constitutional fifteen mill tax rate limitation and the years such increases are effective are as follows affecting the taxable property of Local Unit:

High school students seeking careers

Students who are seeking a career in journalism are finding many opportunities to fulfill their post-college ambitions in their chosen field.

A team of three journalists presented options to students at Gabriel Richard High School through the Career Awareness Program, a division of Boy Scouts of America.

"This program is the best thing we have for introducing students to potential careers," said Cathy Napieralski, assistant principal of Gabriel Richard High School in Riverview. "It fits the needs of the students and staff."

Napieralski, a Belleville resident, has taught at the high school since the 1979-80 semester and has served in her current post since 1982.

"The Career Awareness Program is an improvement over our past Career Days, because students can now attend more of the sessions. Previously, they could only sign up for three sessions. Now they can attend as many as they wish in the series," Napieralski said.

Twenty-three high schools, including Robichaud High School, are participating in the Boy Scout-sponsored program. Presenting career programs were Belleville City Editor Joan Dyer-Zinner of Associated Newspapers, Inc. and representatives of a florist publication and public relations firm.

"To get your foot in the door to a writing career, one needs experience. Students can gain experience by writing for the school newspaper or yearbook, a community or church publication or working as a student reporter for a newspaper."

- Joan Dyer-Zinner

"To write for a weekly newspaper, you must be a jack-of-all trades," Dyer-Zinner told the students, noting that reporters cover such varied areas as the schools, courts, local government and police news plus feature articles.

She advised students to gain a strong background in political science and English to prepare themselves for a journalism career. Employers need writers with good grammar and spelling skills, she said.

"An interest in people is a major qualification. A newspaper writer must be able to talk to the elderly, small children, public figures, blue-collar workers and professional people - maybe, several in the same day - without talking down to them or being awed or intimidated by them," the city editor said. "In addition to being a 'people person,' newspaper writers must have an ability to be self-starters and to carry through on projects and meet deadlines."

Dyer-Zinner said the variety of writing experiences that are available to weekly newspaper writers makes journalism an interesting career choice.

"To get your foot in the door to a writing career, one needs experience. Students can gain experience by writing for the school newspaper or yearbook, a community or church publication or working as a student reporter for a newspaper," Dyer-Zinner said.

Nan Hall, senior coordinator for the Career Awareness Program, said the program is geared toward bringing working people from all fields into direct contact with high school students.

"The program offers students contacts with 'real people' from the careers they have an interest in and provide a positive adult role model. It also provides exposure to careers that students might not have known about previously and provides a basis for decision making through up-to-date job information," said Hall.

Each school participating in the program hosts eight to 16 one-hour seminars annually.

Legislator supports recovery plan

A measure authorizing the state Department of Social Services (DSS) to recover welfare and food stamp overpayments from closed cases was unanimously approved by members of the Michigan House last week.

State Rep. Deborah Whyman (R-Canton) said House Bill 4299 will allow the state to reclaim overpayments made to recipients of public assistance, including those erroneously given to ineligible people.

"The measure also sends a message to taxpayers," Whyman added, "that state government cares how their money is used and wants to rectify mistakes."

Federal guidelines require that states attempt to reclaim public assistance overpayments, but actual collection is left to individual state law. However, the Catch-22, Whyman said, is a 1988 Court of Appeals ruling that Michigan lacked legal authority to collect the overpayments. This legislation authorizes the rule changes required by the federal government.

During the last several years, Whyman continued, Republican attempts to pass the enabling legislation were thwarted in the state House. Experts are pegging the overpayment debt at some $100 million, or 40,000 cases.

"Although the process of recovering the funds is lengthy and complex," the first-term representative said, "we no longer can afford to dismiss a debt of such magnitude."

Whyman said it is "unrealistic" to expect complete recovery from overpayments. Debt attributed to agency error would be waived, along with those where the cost of the effort equalled or exceeded the overpayment.

DSS estimates approximately 25 percent of overpayments could be collected, with the state savings after costs estimated at more than $10 million.

The bill is expected to clear the state Senate, where it has been sent for consideration.

Pershing wipes out Salem in regional finals

Berkley is no problem

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Getting to the Class A regional championship basketball game for Plymouth-Salem's Rocks and coach Bob Brodie was no problems.

The Rocks rolled past a highly-touted Berkley squad, 72-60, last week to earn the dubious honor of meeting Detroit Pershing, the defending Class A state champ.

Pershing crushed Salem (See Related Story) and advanced to the state quarterfinals which were staged last night. The Doughboys were to meet undefeated Walled Lake Central at the University of Detroit.

With sharpshooting Mike Slone and James Head combining for 40 of Salem's points against Berkley, the Rocks moved from a 14-13 first period deficit to a 33-27 halftime advantage.

Salem never relinquished its lead in the second half and maintained a seven-point cushion right down to the final buzzer.

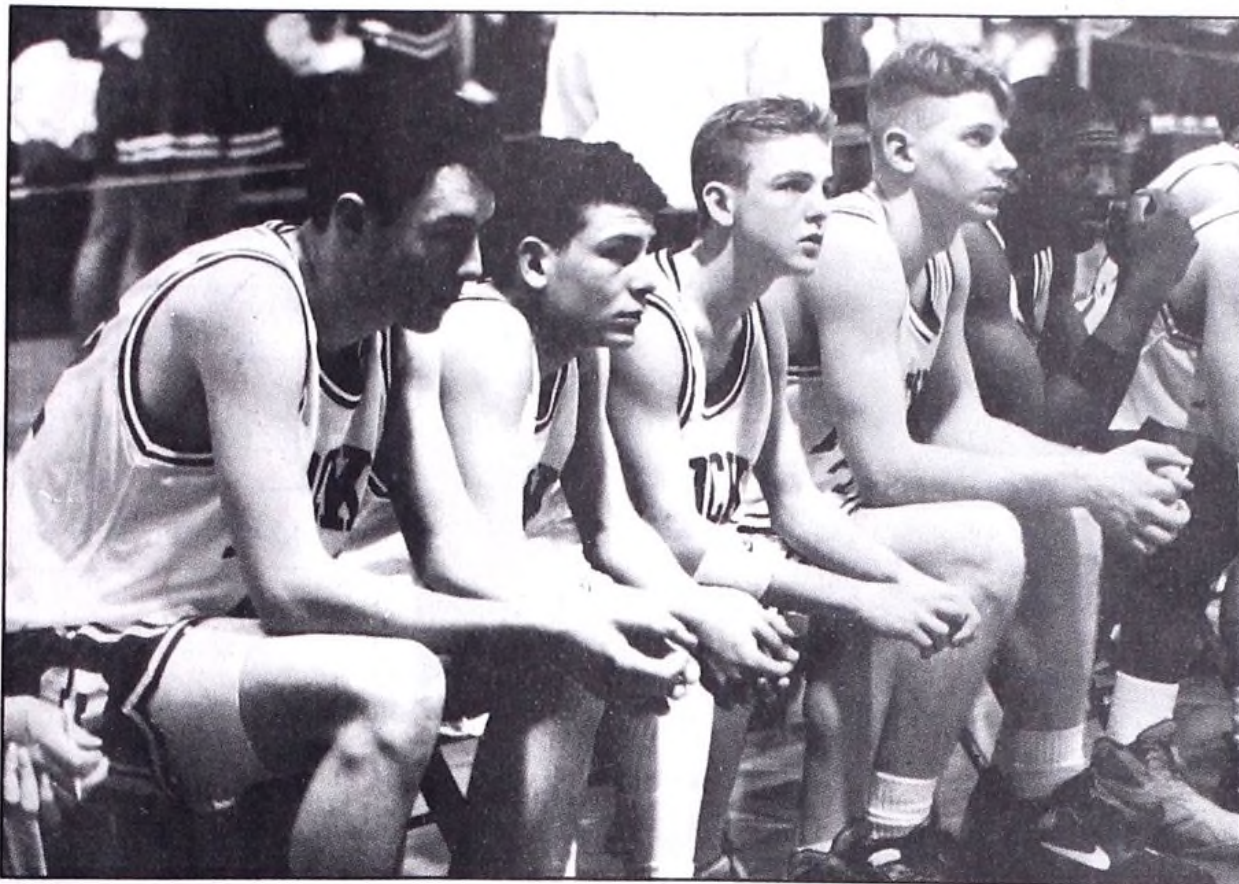

"I felt we played a solid all-around game," said Brodie. "We had control of the boards and, after that shaky first-period start, we settled down."

Head collected 14 rebounds to go with his 13 points, eight of those came in the crucial second period.

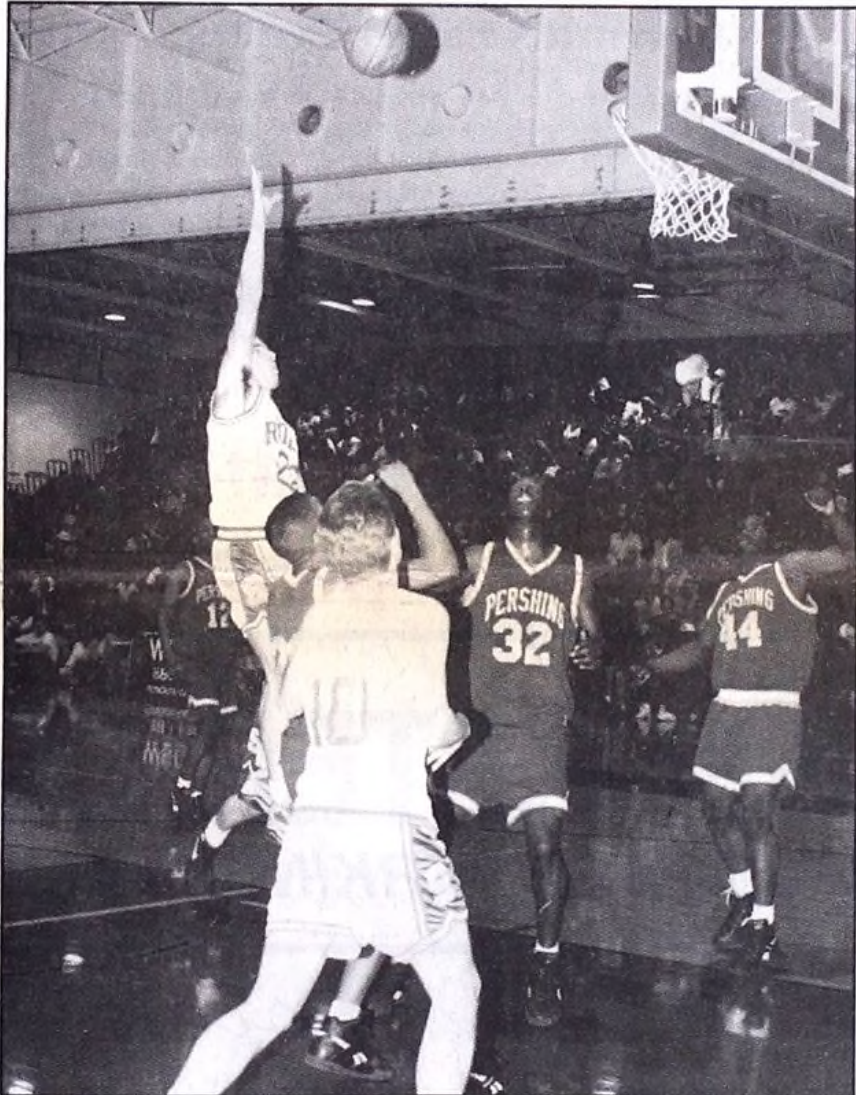

Slone provided the spark that ignited the Rocks. He drilled in 10 of his team-high 27 points in that pivotal second period to turn the game around for Salem. Twin brother, Brandon, also reached double figures with 14 points.

Berkley managed to stay in the game thanks to the efforts of Eric VanderEyck, who scored a game-high 29 points.

The Rocks also managed to pick up 18 of 27 offerings at the free throw line as compared to Berkley's 13 of 18 effort.

The somber look on the faces of members of the Plymouth-Salem basketball team reflects the telltale story of despair. The Rocks' dream of a regional title Friday night was crushed by defending state champ, Detroit Pershing, which claimed a 83-52 victory before a sellout crowd at Southfield Lathrup. ## Detroit crushes Rocks' playoff dream

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Detroit Pershing, the defending Class A state champ, made sure that there wasn't going to be an "impossible dream" left in Plymouth-Salem basketball season.

Or a "Cinderella" year.

Or anything like that.

Before a sellout crowd at Southfield-Lathrup High School, the Doughboys crushed the Rocks, 83-52, to capture a Class A regional basketball championship.

The defending state champs advanced to the state quarterfinals and were scheduled to meet undefeated Walled Lake Central last night in the quarterfinal at the University of Detroit.

Pershing struck early as 6-7 forward Carlos Williams tossed in 10 of his 23 points to stake the champs to a 23-11 first period lead. Pershing increased its advantage to 41-22 at intermission, then came back and outscored the Rocks 25-11 in the third quarter to make sure that there wasn't going to be any upset.

"Pershing just has exceptional talent - they have a couple of forwards who go 6-7 (Williams) and 6-6 (Todd Borgan), and a 6-8 center (Willie Mitchell). We couldn't match up with them," said Salem coach Bob Brodie. "They dominated the game."

Salem did manage to eke out an early 9-6 lead, but the Doughboys then went on a 17-2 run that lifted them into a commanding 23-11 lead.

Pershing put three players into the double-figure column with Williams 23 standing up as the game high. Borgan finished with 20 and Mitchell chipped in with 19.

Mike Slone led the Rocks with 15 and junior James Head had 10.

Ann Arbor Pioneer ends Belleville year

It all came apart last week for Belleville at Ypsilanti High.

And tearing to shreds coach Michael Garland the Tigers' game plan for a Class A regional basketball championship was Ann Arbor Pioneer.

Pioneer broke loose from a five-all tie early in the first period and jumped to a 15-8 lead, then never looked back on the last Wolverine 'A' Conference co-champs until they had a convincing 66-43 victory in the semifinals of the regional playoffs.

Pioneer destroyed Temperance Bedford Friday night to capture a regional title and earned the right to face top-ranked Benton Harbor in the quarterfinals scheduled for last night at Lansing Eastern.

Unable to find the range - Belleville shot a horrendous

22 percent against Pioneer for the game, the Tigers never could overcome their poor start. Pioneer parlayed their 15-8 first-period lead to a 33-21 advantage at halftime, then went on to outscore Belleville 19-9 and 14-13 in the final two periods.

Division hockey champ fades in semi-finals

There will not be a second gem in Wayne Heating & Cooling's hockey crown this year.

Paddy's Pub made sure of that, 4-1, last week.

Wayne, which captured the division title in the Wayne-Westland Over 30 Hockey League, was an upset victim last week. And a spirited Paddy's Pub, apparently keeping in step with St. Pat's festivities, pulled off big upset.

Paddy's came back after being down 1-0 against the divisional kingpin to score four consecutive goals. That was enough to earn what has to be Paddy's biggest victory of the 1992-93 campaign.

Wayne Robert opened the scoring for the divisional champ, with Dan Robert collecting the assist.

However, it was all Paddy's after that as Jerry Moses and Chuck Erickson drilled in a pair of goals. Bob Johnson and Tom James recorded the assists.

The victory provided Paddy's a ticket to the final round. They will meet P.C. Outlet.

In the meantime, P.C. Outlet had a relatively easy time against Sportswear Design. P.C. crushed their semifinal rivals, 6-1, behind a spirited performance from Tom Mazorowicz and Dan Duszkiwicz, who scored the first two goals for the winners.

However, Craig Albosta rep- lied for Sportswear, making it a 2-1 game. P.C. got some breathing room as Bob Shureb scored the first of his two goals. Then, Mark Giordano and Mazorowicz put it out of reach with back-to-back goals.

Kevin Barbour added a single tally late in the game, but the outcome had already been decided.

Over in the Berrington Division, G.C.A. came up with three first-period goals then hung on to beat Alternative Funeral Services, 4-2.

Inkster cager stars at Moorhead

Basketball teams score points when they have possession of the ball and put it in the rival's hoop.

Right?

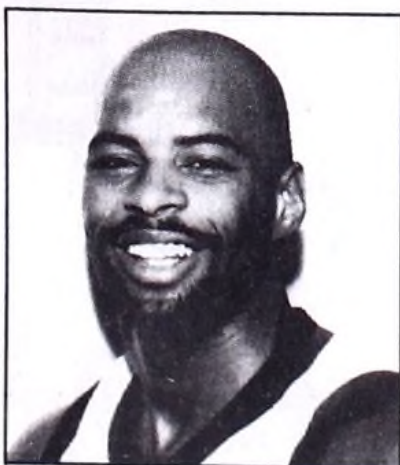

Maybe.

But, Moorhead State University senior Darryl Greene, who hails from Inkster and is a former All-Area cager, disagrees.

"I always figure," the flashy point guard contends, "that if I can stop the other team from scoring, I see that as the same as my going down and scoring two points for us. I like playing defense more than I like scoring on offense. I just love to play the 'D'."

Greene's teammates and fans love to see Greene play the "D" as well. The 6-foot Dragon point guard often brings the Alex Nemzek Field House in Moorhead, Minnesota audience members to their feet with his tenacious full-court defense.

"I love to hear the fans up there screaming for me. People really want to see the effort, and I think they appreciate the effort I give them."

Darryl Greene

"Effort" is something Greene learned early, growing up in Inkster. "Growing up in Inkster and Detroit, it was competition day in and day out. Most days, we'd play basketball 'till two or three in the morning. The competition was unreal."

"I really felt a lot of love...I had a lot of support from my friends and relatives there."

Even so, Greene knows all too well the crime and violence that plague inner cities today. In August 1991, Greene's brother, Andre, suffered a fatal gunshot wound to the neck. He was only 20 at the time of his death.

And it is a memory which Greene carries daily, even to the basketball court.

"He is really an inspiration to me out there. I've dedicated this season to the memory of my brother."

While in high school, Greene played all four years for Inkster High School, earning all-conference, all-area and honorable mention all-state honors along the way.

From there, the lightning-quick Dragon migrated to Cloud County Community College for two years before moving on to Clarion University in 1989.

"I was in two real good programs before coming here. Cloud County was the greatest experience I've ever had playing basketball."

With one year of basketball eligibility remaining, Greene's hardwood future was uncertain. However, through friend and Dragon basketball alumnus Ray Davis, Greene got in touch with MSU head coach Dave Schellhase.

Greene now had a place to play, if he could make the team. So on Sept. 14, 1992 Greene boarded a plane for his first journey to Moorhead State.

Even though he didn't know what to expect, Greene's past experience told him he could get the job done.

"I came in fairly confident I could make a contribution to the team. I have a lot of confidence in my own abilities."

That self-confidence has been a key factor for the Dragons as Greene has assumed the point guard duties for the team.

Belleville's Doug Walters (14) goes in for a reverse lay up that netted him two points. But Walters' superlative efforts weren't enough for the defending regional champs who were ousted in the semifinal rounds of a Class A regional playoff at Ypsilanti High School by Ann Arbor Pioneer. points early in the third period.

"It's a loss that we have to accept, but it also is a loss that we can build on," said Garland, who brought the curtains down on his sixth year as head coach with an impressive 17-6 won-lost record. "We just couldn't buy a basket and we found ourselves playing catchup all night."

"You can't do that against a team of Pioneer's caliber."

Belleville put two players in double scoring figures. Mike Foley bagged 11 and Nate Griffin added 10. On the other side of the scoring ledger, Pioneer got an exceptional effort from Brett Hall, who tossed in 17 points. Teammates Darnell Mitchell and Chris Ford counted 13 and 12 points, respectively.

Garland said that the 1992-93 Belleville team managed to perpetuate the "fine tradition established by our former basketball teams."

"The one loss doesn't diminish the outstanding year these kids had," stressed Garland. "These kids have nothing to be ashamed about. They won 17 of their 23 game this year, and that's a record many would like to have. And they also were the conference co-champs."

Belleville shared the final Wolverine 'A' Conference title with Wayne Memorial. The league is scheduled to be disbanded after the current school years when Belleville and Wayne will realign with a Mega-League.

Salem

Salem finished the 1992-93 campaign with a 21-4 overall record and, the team ranks among the winningest in the history of the school.

"We're proud of this team's record," said Brodie, who finished his ninth year as head coach. "This team had a lot of over-achievers on it. Our only other losses were to undefeated Walled Lake Central, who beat us twice, and to Farmington Harrison, who beat us with that spectacular fourth-period rally and an at-the-buzzer shot."

A CLASS ACT

Multi-talented star continues to shine on stage

text by Margo Dewey

You loved him as the crazy George Jefferson who never gave his wife Louise a moment's peace and constantly poked fun at the adorable maid Florence.

He made everyone laugh with his unmatched wit and gregarious personality.

Sherman Hemsley is taking center stage at the Fox Theatre April 8-11 for the on-stage performance of The Jeffersons. The live production will include the original stars: Isabel Sanford (Louise "Weezy"), Marla Gibbs (Florence), Franklin Cover (Tom Willis) and Roxie Roker (Helen Willis).

Hemsley's first love was always music, beginning with his career as a stage performer. Approximately eight months ago, he launched his debut album Dance.

"I just decided I wanted to do something like this because I really like music," Hemsley said. "The album has a little rock 'n' roll, rhythm and blues and gospel music.

"I sing a lot of original material from various artists."

As the title indicates, the album is packed with upbeat and motivating tunes that have a contagious energy. Produced by Joe Venneri, the album combines masterfully orchestrated backdrops that blend modern harmonies with Hemsley's gifted vocals.

Hemsley's abilities as a performer are endless. He said when he was growing up in Philadelphia, however, he didn't think he had any talent.

"I never considered anything I did back then was talent," Hemsley said. "To me talent was tap dancing or ballet."

Hemsley grew up as an only child. He led a very reserved and quiet life, he said.

"I think that's why I went into acting because I wasn't allowed to make any sounds when I was little, and when you're acting no one can say 'shut up,'" Hemsley said.

Hemsley said he started acting as a hobby. His extensive career on Broadway included playing Gitlow in Purlie Victorious (a part he later played in the HBO presentation of the same show). He also toured with Don't Bother Me, I Can't Cope where he was discovered by Norman Lear who later brought him on the All In The Family series.

"I didn't decide to start acting until I got out of the service and said 'What am I going to do now?'" Hemsley said. "I went to acting school and got into a theater company with a local theater group. I worked with the children's theater. I was just trying to get experience."

This dynamic actor was the hit of many popular television series including The Jeffersons, Amen, guest appearances on 227, one of the main voices of Dinosaurs and a bevy of national commercials.

When he wasn't performing in front of a television camera, he was on stage in Norman, Is That You? and I'm Not Rappaport.

Hemsley said he always keeps himself open for any opportunity.

"Whatever will be will be, right?" Hemsley said.

When he is at home in Los Angeles relaxing, Hemsley said he enjoys playing his keyboard.

"I bought one keyboard four years ago," Hemsley said. "It's great. The keyboards you buy nowadays already have the drums on it and other instruments. You can put everything together with just one keyboard."

The idea to have The Jeffersons on stage came from Hemsley's manager.

"He approached me and thought it would be a good idea to do something like this," Hemsley said. "I said, 'you're kidding.' Then I thought, you know, most people don't get a chance to see celebrities live on stage. It's different from television."

Besides playing his keyboard, Hemsley said he watches a lot of television, especially news shows. Hemsley said sitcoms have changed over the years, and sometimes it's hard to find something good to watch.

"The kids today they play to the comedy, you can't play to the audience," Hemsley said. "You go overboard. You have to separate yourself from the audience. That's what's lacking today."

"There is a certain style to sitcom acting. It has to be light. You can't be too serious. I think the last time I saw something I really liked was the Lawnmower Man," Hemsley said.

What keeps this outstanding actor going on a day-to-day basis?

"I just want to laugh," Hemsley said. "I enjoy making other people laugh. Love is the key."

Tickets are now on sale for The Jeffersons. Call 645-6666 for performance times.

Technically speaking

Notice: Public Participation for Regional Long Range Transportation Plan From: SEMCOG, the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments

The Southeast Michigan Region is federally mandated to revise its Long Range Transportation Plan (LRTP) as a result of the Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act. The LRTP looks ahead 20 years at the transportation needs of Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, St. Clair, Monroe, Livingston and Washtenaw Counties.

This plan is being revised with input from federal, state and local government levels and must be completed by October 1, 1993. Local elected officials will make decisions about how to prioritize spending of transportation dollars for road reconstruction, road improvements and the building of new roads. Policy decisions must also be made about other forms of transportation — buses, airports, bicycles and trains — for example. In addition, the 1990 Clean Air Act identifies Southeast Michigan as a moderate non-attainment area. The LRTP must support efforts to reduce regional hydrocarbon emissions by 15% by 1996 as required by the Clean Air Act.

Public participation is a vital ingredient in the revision of the LRTP. Elected officials must have some sense of the public will if a comprehensive plan is to be developed that addresses regional transportation needs.

Public information meetings will be held to provide an opportunity to comment on the goals and objectives of the LRTP. The meetings will be held:

• Wednesday, March 24, 1993, 3 p.m., at 278 Collingwood, Ann Arbor. Parking is available at the corner of Collingwood and Shelby Streets. For additional information contact Terri Blackmore 313-994-3127.

• Monday, March 29, 1993, 10 a.m., 2 p.m., and 7 p.m., at the St. Clair County Board of Commissioners Chambers, St. Clair County Bldg., 201 McMorran, Port Huron. For additional information contact Lisa Bitzenger, 313-987-4884.

• Wednesday, March 31, 1993, 1:30 p.m., at the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments office, 660 Plaza Drive, Suite 1900, Detroit. For additional information contact John Rempala, 313-961-4266.

Written comments are also welcome. The following survey form has been designed to solicit your input in the regional transportation planning process. Because the region is developing a plan that will shape important future transportation decisions about the allocation of limited federal, state and local dollars, some important choices must be made. Please complete the following two-part survey and return it to:
SEMCOG, 660 Plaza Drive, Suite 1900
Detroit, MI 48226, by April 9, 1993.

Clip Here and Mail to SEMCOG

I. There are several options to be considered in developing a transportation plan. Rank these options in order of importance, "1" being the most important and "7" being the least important.

- Maintaining and resurfacing existing roads
- Building new or wider roads to reduce traffic congestion
- Making buses and trains more convenient to use
- Redesigning roads, traffic signs and signals to improve traffic safety and reduce accidents
- Improving shipping of goods by air, rail or truck
- Reducing energy consumption and air pollution from motor vehicles
- Enhancing alternative forms of transportation including pedestrian walkways and bike paths

II. Limited financial resources are available to maintain and improve our transportation system. This requires that some difficult choices be made about how to best invest these dollars in our regional transportation system. Review the pairs of options below and circle the one in each pair that is most acceptable to you.

- Maintaining the quality of transportation in existing or older urban areas or
- Building new roads and expanding transit service in less urban areas.

- Investing in special equipment on regular bus routes to assist senior citizens and disabled individuals or
- Providing door-to-door service for senior citizens and disabled individuals using special small buses.
1. Widening roads to relieve traffic congestion or
2. Providing more buses, van/carpooling to reduce traffic congestion.
1. Investing in traditional road improvements, such as road widening or
2. Investing in high technology road improvement such as computerized traffic signal systems.
1. Reducing air pollution by limiting travel, driving less, increasing use of transit and carpools, for example, or
2. Reducing air pollution by testing automobiles in alternate years and making needed repairs.
1. Accepting a scaled down transportation plan (with more congestion, potholes, etc.) for the region as a result of limited dollars or
2. Providing more money for an improved transportation plan through increased user fees or taxes.

Realtor marks 25th anniversary

By CRAIG GARRETT
ANP Staff Writer

Ted Martin says 1993 should be a good year in the real estate market.

"Housing prices (in Wayne-Westland) are very stable and interest rates (everywhere) are their lowest in 20 years," the veteran businessman said Thursday. "Especially with car sales on the rise. That's always been a sure sign (home) sales will increase, at least in our area."

Martin is celebrating 25 years as a realtor/broker with his Westland-based Red Carpet Keim franchise.

Martin, now age 50, was introduced to real estate in the early 1950s by his father, Edward Martin. The senior Martin, at the time an auto manufacturer foreman, started his fledgling firm in the family's Wayne home offering insurance, appraisal and real estate (primarily commercial) services.

By 1967, Martin had moved to the current Westland location. Ted Martin, a young man teaching business at Wayne Memorial High School at the time, joined his father's successful company and took over operations in 1968 when Edward Martin retired to Arizona.

Martin Realtors joined Earl Keim's realty network in 1970 as the first state independent Keim franchise. Thirteen years later, Keim sold his real estate business (85 franchises) to a bank holding firm and retired a wealthy man. Five years ago the Mt. Clemens-based holding company purchased the national Red Carpet real estate franchise and created, in Michigan only, Red Carpet-Keim Real Estate.

Martin consummated his success in the field last year when 18 Red Carpet-Keim franchise brokers purchased the Michigan name. Today he is treasurer of the organization.

To what factors does Martin attribute his success?

"I think our longevity can be directly linked to our sales staff," Martin conceded. "We have four sales people with over 20 years (on staff) and five with over 15. We've stayed close-knit because we're active in the community and we care about what we're doing. We've been very stable over the years."

Home buyers, too, have changed with the times, Martin added.

"People are more sophisticated," he said.

Fleetwood--the Cadillac of autos

By CRAIG GARRETT
ANP Staff Writer

Both driver and front passenger airbags are standard, as are: keyless remote, power seat recliners, lumbar adjustments, heated front and rear seats, child-proof doors and the "Power Drain System" which protects the battery if interior lights are inadvertently left on.

Fleetwood is powered by the 5.7L V8 delivering 185 horsepower and some 25 miles on the highway, or a range of 575 miles with the 23-gallon plastic fuel tank. Locally expect 16 mpg. Cadillac has added platinum-tipped spark plugs to the Chevrolet designed engine for 100,000-mile maintenance.

An interesting feature this year is the ASRIIU Traction Control. The standard system, which is disengagable by a glove compartment switch, monitors wheel slippage. If the computer notices excess rear wheel spin on snow or ice, it applies rear brakes on one or both tires and relaxes throttle speed. At first blush the system feels strange, like someone else is in control, but the added safety is worth the feeling.

The longest regular production car built in America, Cadillac Fleetwood (and Brougham), is back in 1993 with an all-new body style and added luxury appointments.

General Motors designers have given Fleetwood a sweeping aerodynamic look providing the smooth-riding sedan with a fresh and engaging look. Both the windshield and back window are larger than 1992 (you could land a small airplane on the dash) further reducing drag. A large new grille style integrated into the hood, plus one-piece front and rear bumpers are standard.

Also contributing to the renowned Fleetwood quiet ride are one-piece stamped doors to ensure precise fit between body and doors. Nineteen-ninety-three vehicles have a mini-wedge door latch and striker mechanism for secure interlocking between body and doors which improves door opening/closing effort and increases passenger safety. Added acoustical treatments and sealings further insulate Fleetwood passengers from the bleats and noises of the outside world. Also standard are two-sided galvanized steel side panels, deck lid and hood.

But inside Fleetwood is where luxury buyers should primarily focus their attention. Front and rear seat refinements of the $37,136 fully loaded Brougham tested provide an added 18 cubic feet of passenger and cargo space, bringing total volume to 146 cubic feet, or about the complete size of a Volkswagen.

The 1993 Cadillac Fleetwood Brougham

Wayne rebounds quickly from stalled economy

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Feature Editor

The City of Wayne is on the rebound from an economic slump with commercial and industrial growth.

Wayne will be the home of the Wayne Community Living Services (WCLS), the fifth largest employer in the city.

WCLS is moving into the Metro Place Mall which will soon be the MetroPlace Center. It is a non-profit agency that contracts with the Detroit-Wayne County Community Mental Health Board to serve more than 1,400 people with developmental disabilities.

"The city administration has been working for many months on this project," City Manager John Zech said. "The fact that Wayne was selected from among several other communities that were competing for the relocation of WCLS makes a positive statement about the strengths of the City of Wayne."

WCLS will occupy more than 60,000 square feet of the Metro facility. The annual budget for WCLS is $92 million with an annual payroll of $14 million which involves more than 250 employees.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources has granted the city a Class B Closure on the property will allow city officials the green light to go forward with the sale of the property to Russell Development Co. for Blockbuster Video.

As soon as the sale is finalized, Russell officials informed city officials construction will begin.

"From the city council and administrative view, we feel good about the outlook of all the progress in Wayne."

- John Zech
City Manager

Construction on the new paint plant remains on schedule and will begin production this month.

A new medical facility is targeted for the corner of Venoy and Forest Avenue. Groundbreaking is expected for the Venoy Medical Center in April.

Venoy Medical will be a full-service facility offering many conveniences to residents, according to Dr. Chandrakant H.

Pujara, president of the Professional Investment Group Inc. (property owners of the facility).

The building will be situated on 24,100 square feet, according to Pujara. It will be a one-story medical building which will house eight office suites for approximately 60 employees. There will be a laboratory and pharmacy.

The installation of underground utilities is nearing completion for the new Tanglewood subdivision in Wayne. Plans for construction of a model home are expected this month.

"From the city, council and administrative view, we feel good about the outlook of all the progress in Wayne," Zech said. "A lot of the private projects will create jobs for the city. We're looking forward to the spring construction season."

City focuses on small-town image

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

Belleville is alive and well, and looking forward to taking the next step in its revitalization program.

With an attractive Streetscape completed, the city has hired consultant Bob Gibbs to provide a market study and ideas to boost the downtown area.

"Our job is to bring business in and to help existing businesses," Gibbs told the Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce at its March 17 meeting. "There are many businesses in town that are doing very well. In our survey, we found that some of their customers drive 20 to 30 miles to do business in Belleville. That is very unusual and speaks well of your business people."

Gibbs said the city fills a need of the 1990s - that of a small-town setting for shopping and residential living.

"Surveys show that people prefer to live in small towns - those with populations of 2,500 to 15,000, and Belleville fits that image," Gibbs said.

tate-94, I-275 and US-23 and just minutes from Metro Airport, Belleville has accessibility to the large metropolitan area but still retains its small-town charm with a blend of turn-of-the-century homes and newer dwellings.

Members of the Downtown Development Authority are considering plans to develop new housing in the $70,000 to $100,000 price range at one of several sites in the city.

LEARN A LOT ABOUT YOUR HEALTH

With Screenings From Project Health-O-Rama

It's important to learn about your health when you're healthy. And an easy way to learn is with screenings and tests by Project Health-O-Rama and the Oakwood health care system. # Envotech provides safe waste management future

Many of us share a deep concern for safeguarding the environment and providing a bright future for our children. Most of us realize that it's important to protect our natural resources without destroying the manufacturing base that supports our modern lifestyles.

Environmental preservation must be balanced with the needs of industries that provide jobs and manufacture the products that improve our quality of life.

Safe and effective management of wastes is one of the keys to achieving an effective balance between economic prosperity and concern for our natural resources.

Envotech is a waste treatment and disposal organization that safely manages wastes generated through the manufacture of such items as computers, automobiles, clothing and toys. Envotech employees share the concerns of individuals about the environment and economic future.

They want the best for their families in Belleville, Canton, Romulus, Ypsilanti, Rockwood, Auburn Hills, Ann Arbor and other communities throughout southeastern Michigan.

The Envotech Environmental Protection Facility in Van Buren Township has been providing a full range of safe treatment and disposal services for more than three decades. The facility, which is located on the I-94 service drive east of Rawsonville

Envotech Management Services Inc. (EMSI) uses the latest technology to treat and stabilize a wide range of hazardous and non-hazardous.

Road includes:

- Envotech Management Services Inc. (EMSI) uses the latest technology to treat and stabilize a wide range of hazardous and non-hazardous wastes.
- Wayne Disposal places much of the treated and diluted waste from EMSI in its hazardous waste landfill. Michigan's only commercial hazardous waste landfill features a comprehensive containment system to isolate waste from the environment.

- Willow Run Farms is built on top of a closed non-hazardous waste landfill. Willow Run Farms is powered by methane gas captured from the landfill and uses a hydroponic agriculture technique that does not require soil to grow a variety of salad greens and plants. These items are sold to restaurants and retail outlets throughout Michigan and the U.S.

In addition to its Van Buren Township operation, Wayne Disposal will also begin operating a non-hazardous municipal landfill in Canton later this year.

The company and the Canton community have developed an innovative operating agreement that will provide millions of dollars from the landfill operation for the construction of a community center.

Wayne Disposal currently operates non-hazardous landfills in Auburn Hills and Rockwood, Mich.

Michigan Resource Recovery Inc. is another member of Envotech's southeastern Michigan waste management team. The Romulus facility recovers and recycles industrial waste solvents. This process allows industry to reuse manufacturing solvents several times and drastically reduces the amount of solvent that must be commercially disposed.

Cost-efficient industrial waste fuel blending and disposal services are also offered.

Envotech offers safe waste management solutions for our future through quality, service and total customer satisfaction. ## Bright ideas Innovations improve safety, reliability

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

Bright ideas have sparked changes at the area headquarters building of Detroit Edison.

"Expansion and innovations at the Haggerty Road facility have placed most of the area operations under one roof and have created a spirit of teamwork among those in the new facility," said James Connelly, district manager.

After several months of construction and renovations, the service center and its new storage area, garage and maintenance facility are near completion at the Wayne-Monroe Division headquarters building in Van Buren Township.

Now, under one roof, are the headquarters, offices, sales and service personnel, engineers, service planners, systems support staff and linemen.

"We've got a state-of-the-art facility. We're on the cutting edge of new technology," said Connelly.

"Actually, we're leapingfrogging to the next level of technology," said George Woods, director of operations.

"When we made our plans for the new facility, we said, 'Let George do it,' and he did," quipped Connelly.

As important as the advanced technology which has been implemented, are the people who contribute their knowledge and skills to the operation, said Connelly.

"By placing planners, sales and service people together, we've improved communications. If someone needs to talk to a field worker or planner, he is available on site. We are better able to meet our customers needs in our new facility," Connelly said. "Because we are all here together in the community, we are closer to our customers."

The division, which serves some 280,000 customers, operates the Trenton, Monroe and Fermi plants.

The innovative system allows blips on a screen to pinpoint where power is down. Technicians observing the automated system can direct crews to repair the affected area. However, new technology, not only will enable repairs to be made quickly, but will eventually allow service to be restored before being repaired.

Technicians at the facility describe how power can be cut off at each end of a problem area and electricity re-routed to restore service before a repair crew is dispatched.

After the disastrous July wind storm a few years ago, Detroit Edison has made line clearance a major priority. A major tree-trimming and line maintenance program is now under way to prevent future power losses from downed tree limbs.

"We want the greatest measure of safety for the public,"

Mark Baustert translates the 'blips' on the computer screen to information that monitors and maintains service on utility lines. ANP photo by Ken Garner

Connelly said. "We are finding that we have fewer outages now that we are in our tree clearing program."

Connelly said there has been some criticism about the trimming, but "I'd rather answer questions about our tree program, than to explain the loss of life (if wires are downed)."

With our new, computerized system, the facility can receive 40,000 calls an hour during an emergency situation. The past capacity was between 5,000 and 6,000 calls, according to the district manager.

The computerized calls are fed from the main communications center and the locations of the trouble spots are pin-

Inkster to recover from unpolished gem stigma

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

There are signs that this city of 30,772 residents will wake and find themselves in the midst of economic development and in step with neighbors to the east and north.

But, as the months of 1993 slowly become history, Inkster has failed to attract the financial power-brokers who can redesign and reshape a community that has unlimited potential, according to city leaders and officials.

The positive signs of progress include the selection of a Birmingham-based realty company, Wyndham Realty, which is scheduled to construct some 100 single family homes in the Beech Daly Redevelopment Area.

The new subdivision will be named Brittany Place, and homes in the subdivision will be priced between $69,000 and $100,000.

"This will help bring families into the city and with families we are confident that commercial and retail development will follow," said Clarence Oden, Community Development Director for the city of Inkster.

Keeping in step with that development, the state recently awarded the city of Inkster and Dearborn Heights $783,000 in Michigan Transportation Economic Development Funds to widen Beech Daly and John Daly Roads. The grant will also create new jobs in the city and adjoining community, stressed state senator George Z. Hart (D- Dearborn), whose district includes Inkster.

The area has also been designated as an Enterprise Zone, which will allow give future homeowners in the subdivision an additional incentive to buy homes. They could receive a tax break for up to 12 years if they purchase a house in the designated area.

There is the prime parcel of land located in the central business area, on Michigan Avenue and Inkster, that has in the past attracted the attention of potential developers, cheap land, a stock of some 800 vacant houses that could be turned into viable projects and profit for local and area entrepreneurs.

With a state-equalized value of $203,304,803 and a newly-completed school complex constructed at a cost of $11 million, potential developers would be wise to give the city of Inkster a second and serious look if they plan to build in the near future, city officials note.

Unfortunately, city officials have not been able to convince the financial institutions that Inkster can again become a viable city.

Public safety, an aging infrastructure and the quality of life remain the principle concerns of a city council that is strapped because of the lack of revenues.

City Manager S. Thomas White earlier this year took steps to insure that a "paper deficit" of $1.2 million deficit didn't become a reality. He asked for but apparently didn't get any concessions for the city unions, therefore, cut services and personnel.

The city is also meeting with Wayne County to discuss a possible merger of services, including law enforcement. City or county officials refuse to comment on the apparent negotiations.

And the dream revealed by Mayor Edward Bivens Jr., as described in his Feb. 3, 1992 State of the City address, remains just that - a dream.

In that address, the mayor stressed that the goal of the city and his administration is "to regain its internal and external status as one of Metropolitan Detroit's finest suburban communities in which to live and work."

Ideas

pointed. After the trouble spots are identified on the computer screen, crews are dispatched to repair the problems 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

As one might imagine, the new facility is an all-electric one. The facility has a stand-by generator for use in the event of a major power failure.

The newly constructed storage area and garage includes meeting and class rooms, equipment storage areas and space to park, fuel and repair vehicles. Only materials which are needed for current use are stored in the Haggerty Road facility on a "just in time" basis. A central warehouse stores large quantities of supplies and materials for long-range use.

"We are changing our utility trucks to white. Our customers will notice the difference as we phase the new white trucks into service," said Connelly. "It gives our trucks a clean look. Our drivers also are involved in the 'Eyes and Ears' campaign to watch for incidents of crime in the communities we serve."

A sloping area at the front of the property has been reserved for water runoff, if needed. Employees have dubbed it "Golden Pond."

Township moves ahead with growth

Located at the crossroads of southeastern Michigan, Van Buren Township offers a prime location for residential, commercial and industrial development.

Van Buren Township Supervisor David Jacokes and members of the township board are dedicated - not only to growth - but, are committed to quality growth.

The township has a long-range master plan in place and a commitment to the plan. In addition, the township has a Economic Development Corporation as well as a Downtown Development Authority (DDA).

Currently, the DDA is studying plans to construct a $10 million senior center/recreation complex and administration building.

In its commitment to quality growth, the township board is dedicated to:

- Reinforcing the single-family residential character and integrity of neighborhoods in the township, and provide suitable for development of an adequate supply of safe, sanitary, efficient and aesthetically pleasing housing consistent with the economic and social requirements of the population. Currently, three major residential projects are under way.
- Promoting and maintaining a well-planned system of commercial and office area to efficiently service the needs and desires of township residents while at the same time strengthening the township tax and employment base. A new NBD check-clearing facility is one of the new commercial buildings in the township. In addition, Detroit Edison has recently completed major renovations to its Haggerty Road facility.

The township has a long range master plan in place and a commitment to the plan. In addition, the township has a Economic Development Corporation.

• Maintaining and enhancing industrial uses in a way that is consistent with community values and compatible with surrounding land uses.

• Providing adequate park and open space opportunities for the residents and providing protection, maintenance and balanced use of the natural resources in the township.

Recreational opportunities abound at the 101-acre Van Buren Park and at the 1,260-acre Belleville Lake.

Van Buren Park has four softball fields, picnic areas, volleyball courts, a boat dock, five pavilions and a nature center.

The park features a swimming beach, picnic areas and an outdoor stage plus deer, birds and other forms of wildlife in a natural setting. These resources plus other parks and commercial facilities, make year-round recreational opportunities available to residents who wish to swim, fish, sail, skate, cross-country ski or toboggan.

Population of the 34-square-mile township was listed as 21,000 at the last census.

Innovations at Detroit Edison improve safety

Several key, primarily promising issues, face Canton Township residents and officials this year, said Supervisor Thomas Yack. Included on the topical 1993 short list, Yack said, are:

- Joint services talks with officials from the cities of Plymouth and Northville, plus Plymouth and Northville townships. This is a continuing effort to consolidate all or some municipal services with the five communities. The police area has been targeted because participation already exists in a wide range of police services. Additionally, it is obvious each community must run its own dispatch, lock up and records bureau. The township expects to be in a position to share insights with the (Canton) Board of Trustees by July 1.

- Community Center planning continues after recently selecting a design team to create and build the $13-million project. It is anticipated that by the end of May a schematic plan of the center will be completed. It also is expected construction will begin by late this year or early 1994.

While design activities take place, township officials will be engaged in: creating an operational analysis, development of marketing and staffing plans, determining options for minimizing expenses and developing a request for proposals in the food service area.

A number of builders have signed on the New Home Buyers Membership Program. For a slight reduction in the yearly membership fee paid to Canton, builders will offer a free membership to new home buyers. Prior to the yet unnamed center opening current Canton residents will be offered a similar program.

• Mettetal Airport is another issue affecting Canton residents. Michigan transportation officials want to purchase the airport for general aviation purposes and are justifying their actions on the basis of Mettetal being a reliever airport and citing its value as a stimulus to the business community. Township officials are currently in the process of gathering information as to Michigan's long- and short-range plans. The information gathering includes the answers to a number of legal questions.

• Expect to see the Pheasant Run Golf Community to take shape this summer with sewer/water service and Glenngarry Boulevard construction from Canton Center to Beck roads. Also golf course and driving range construction is expected to begin.

Canton Treasurer Elaine Kirchgatter has agreed to head up the efforts in creating a volunteer community-based arts group named Project Arts. The group is being formed with the short-range goal of assisting in the programming of the Heritage Park Amphitheater.

Heritage Festival plans also are moving for the June 25, 26 and 27 event. Again this year there will be a two-day classic car show, fine arts and crafts tents, food concessions, children's games and rides and plenty of music.

Efforts are continuing to support Canton Homeowner Associations by offering a variety of support services to the "in limbo" Homeowners Advisory. The intent is not to co-op the Advisory, but to offer assistance in communication and problem solving spheres.

Romulus improves with projects

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

New roadway, sidewalk and housing projects are in various stages of development this year in Romulus, Community Development Director Jane Downing revealed this week.

One of the most extensive traffic improvements planned for the city this year, Downing said, is the $8.3 million Vining Road interchange that includes both a new interchange and additional boulevard footage on both Vining and Wick roads.

An additional 2,600 feet of pavement will be added to Vining Road connecting it with Wick Road. Another 1,000 feet of roadway will be added to the Wick Road portion, Downing said.

Another project that will widen and add to Smith Road, from Merriman to Middlebelt, is slated for this year at a cost of $1.5 million.

The Downtown Development Authority also is working on a project that will greatly improve traffic on Goddard Road, between Wayne Road and Five Points.

This project will include roadway improvements and new lighting and sidewalks.

• Pedestrian safety efforts also will be enhanced by block grant funds that will be used to add 1,200 feet of sidewalk in the downtown area of Bibbins (from Wayne Road to Hunt Street), Downing said.

The new sidewalks will meet existing sidewalks in the Hunt Street area.

Mayor Beverly McAnally's drive to add a wide assortment of housing units to the city was started last year with the creation of lower to moderate-priced housing for young families and senior citizens wishing to downsize their properties.

A pre-development housing plan is now being worked out for a residential area in the Pennsylvania-Harrison Street area. This project includes upper scale single housing options, apartments and condominiums, Downing revealed.

McAnally said there also is great hope that Wayne County Metro Airport officials will be able to sell some of the existing homes they purchased in the area of airport expansion.

These homes are in excellent condition, McAnally said.

Outlook 1993: Small businesses see a brighter future

While unemployment figures appear to rise, the small business future looks bright across the country.

In Michigan, small businesses provide more than 50 percent of all jobs, the future is looking as good or better than the national predictions, according to statistics released by the Small Business Association of Michigan.

These small businesses are usually those neighborhood establishments which face the severe competition from larger merchants, and yet continue to thrive or at least endure. These small businesses whether they provide home health care, serve lunch and dinner or perhaps do our dry cleaning are the embodiment of the American Dream. These smaller, independent businesses are usually the ones that sponsor area athletic teams and can be counted on for contributions to local community efforts.

They each fight an uphill battle, every day, particularly in the present economic climate, to continue to survive facing the encroachment of larger merchants and service groups for consumers' patronage and support. And yet they continue to pursue their dreams and continue to provide jobs and service despite what many consider overwhelming opposition from government and larger businesses.

Most patients do not look at their dentist, doctor or lawyer as a small business, but in many cases, that is exactly the situation. The local bakery, grocery store, electrician, carpenter and florist, too, are all an integral part of the community and the small business population.

In Michigan, of the 206,922 business establishments, small businesses owned 92.9 percent. Nationally, 92.8 percent of all business establishments were owned by small businesses.

Small businesses employed 56.5 percent of the private non-farm workers in Michigan. Nationally, small firms employ 57.3 percent of all private non-farm workers.

Small businesses have traditionally generated much of the economic growth and new jobs in the nation. From 1988 to 1990, the most current year for which nationwide figures are available, all of the new jobs in the nation were created by small businesses. In Michigan, small businesses created 100 percent of the new jobs during the same period.

Industries dominated by small firms added 173,000 jobs between January and June of 1992, when compared with employment for January through June 1991. During the same period, industries dominated by large firms lost 235,000 jobs. Including industries not classified in either group, the economy overall lost 75,000 jobs during this period.

Outside of a few jobs in the transportation and retail trade sectors, job growth was completely dominated by the service sector.

Congressman applauds outstanding college service proposal

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP News Editor

Congressman William D. Ford was the first to praise President Bill Clinton's national service proposal which will give college-bound students the opportunity to pay for college by working for schools, health or other governmental agencies after graduation.

Ford, the chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee, believes the proposal could open more doors for those who would like to attend college.

"The proposal has double the value of making a college education affordable and nurturing a more compassionate, public-spirited consciousness among our young people that will spread throughout the country," Ford said.

Ford and members of his committee will be charged with approval of the president's new plan. The congressman welcomes the opportunity to work with the new Democratic administration, he said.

The proposal reportedly would include 30,000 young Americans beginning in 1994 and would climb to 100,000 by 1997.

- William D. Ford

The proposal reportedly would include 30,000 young Americans beginning in 1994 and would climb to 100,000 by 1997, according to Ford.

Those who opt for the program would receive a minimum-wage stipend after they graduate from college and they would also receive health care and child care benefits. Students could also be relieved of student loan burdens up to $10,000 for each of the two years they serve.

The program would be funded with both federal government and private funding sources, he added.

Some high school and college students and recent graduates would serve in the youth corps, some non-profit organizations and college service programs that would address national and local issues.

Some participants might fulfill their duties by teaching or assisting in some manner in public schools, working in health clinics, police departments or with environmental agencies, Ford added.

"We have an opportunity to build a new, domestic Peace Corps, based on the successes and failures of the social programs we enacted in the 1960s," Ford said "I am gratified that the president shares my commitment to making a college education available to every young person who wants one."

"Whatever endeavor our participants may choose in their lives, their perspectives will be broadened, and perhaps their career paths changed, by helping to rebuild our country after the neglect of the past decades," Ford said.

The economic report card for small firms during the first half of 1992 offered several signs that small business continues to lead the economic recovery from the current recession. Further, it signals a positive movement in the economy as a whole according to Barry Cargill of the Small Business Association of Michigan.

Six out of 10 small and mid-sized businesses nationwide expect an increase in revenues this year, and four in 10 say they intend to hire more workers, according to a post-1992 election survey by National Small Businesses United (NSBU) and Arthur Andersen & Co.

Key findings were:

- 40 percent of the business owners said they will add new employees in the next year--compared to just 15 percent who answered the June mail survey
- 60 percent said they expect higher revenues and 46 percent expect higher profits this year.
- 75 percent of mid-sized companies (with 101 to 500 employees) expect higher revenues, compared to 45 percent of the businesses with one to 19 employees
- There is no consensus among business owners on the most important actions Congress and the President can take to help businesses. Sixteen percent said to cut taxes in general and 14 percent said to cut regulations. Nine percent said the most important change is cutting the deficit, while another 9 percent said the most important change is cutting the capital gains tax. Ten percent said they don't want health care costs imposed on them.
- 68 percent of the business respondents said they had improved productivity in the past year.

Small business owners are optimistic and hopeful about the future of the state and the community--they are the neighbors and job providers in the area and often the most overlooked segment in the community.

Of Note

Westland resident dies in fatal accident

A 39-year-old Westland woman died March 18 as a result of a head-on collision on Merriman Road in Wayne.

The resident, who was driving a Chevy Celebrity, crossed the center line at Merriman just north of Annapolis approximately 12:53 a.m., according to Wayne police Lt. Dan Randall.

"She was traveling northbound on Merriman, and when she crossed the center line, she was struck by a Chevy pick-up traveling southbound," Randall said. "It was a head-on collision. The resident died instantly. The driver of the other vehicle and the two passengers in the car were injured."

Teens arrested in $30,000 theft

Three Romulus teens have been arrested by Romulus Police in connection with the theft of nearly $30,000 worth of computer software, Detective Sgt. Cora Semrau revealed Thursday.

The three adults include two 19-year-old men and an 18-year-old woman, Semrau said.

The arrests were made following a Feb. 13 complaint filed by Joel Carr, assistant superintendent of schools.

A court date has been set in the 34th District Court for April 2.

Westland man found stabbed Monday

Westland police are investigating the first homicide in the city since 1991.

Jeffrey Dansby, a 42-year-old city resident, was found with multiple stab wounds Monday in the Blue Gardens apartment complex after neighbors reported not seeing the victim in his first floor unit for several days.

Police Sgt. Donald Haigh said Blue Gardens management had notified police of their concerns Monday and Dansby's body was discovered around 2 p.m. by investigators. No motive has been established.

Police refused to release details of the crime, but Haigh did say Dansby had been killed sometime over the weekend.

Transient charged with assaulting child

A Westland native charged with sexually assaulting a young girl faces a date in Detroit Recorder's Court after waiving a Thursday hearing in 18th District Court, police said.

David William Black, a 25-year-old transient, is being charged with two counts of second degree criminal sexual conduct (CSC II) in connection with an alleged incident involving a 7-year-old girl. Judge Gail McKnight bound Black over tentatively scheduling an April 8 preliminary examination downtown. He remains jailed on a $20,000 cash bond.

Black, police said, was left to babysit four young children at a friend's Westland home the night of March 17. At some point, Black allegedly removed his clothes and committed two sex acts with the oldest child. Black's activities, police added, did involve penetration.

The youngster told her mother of the alleged episode and police were called. Black faces a maximum 15 years in prison.

What has spurred the unusual Michigan Supreme Court audit of financial books inside the 34th District Court in Romulus?

Presiding Judge William J. Szlinis, who was appointed to the local bench in 1989, admitted contacting the Michigan Supreme Court the week of May 15.

The top court audit specialists immediately responded to Szlinis' call and asked Court Administrator Nancy L. Schuette and her assistant, Tammy Riopelle, to vacate their offices during the audit period.

"While audits (of courts) happen all the time," Szlinis said, "this is the first one of its type here that I know of."

While the judge said it would be "erroneous to say the court officers have been suspended or relieved of their duties," he did admit that Carol Bowman, court director of probation, was handling Schuette's responsibilities.

Both Schuette and Riopelle are being paid during their job absence, Szlinis said.

Szlinis admitted being vague when answering questions, because "we are in the middle of an audit and I know so little of what is actually transpiring right now."

Tom Farrell, a spokesman for the Supreme Court, admitted the audit was continuing, after initially reporting Thursday that he thought it had been completed.

The confusion, he said, stemmed from the fact that the leader of the audit probe had returned to Lansing Wednesday night for personal reasons.

After the audit is complete, the Supreme Court audit manager will supply Szlinis and his fellow judges, Henry Zaborowski and Felix F. Rogalle, with an initial copy of the audit report for examination in an effort to remove any unintentional discrepancies, Farrell said.

Then the report will be finalized. Szlinis said he then will meet with his fellow district judges and determined if any action needs to be taken.

Szlinis said he had no idea the depth or total scope of the audit. He even was in the dark as to

Rare breed Local dog takes top show honors

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

Bill White's dog leads two lives - in the show world, he's Gouner Von der Heckenrose, and at home, he's just plain Moby.

"Moby is one of very few Leonbergers in this country. There's many of this breed in Europe, but only about 350 in the U.S.," said White, explaining that the breed developed in a German town of the same name.

"There's a lion's head on the town crest, and they wanted to develop a breed that resembled a lion to represent Leonberger. The breed was developed from the St. Bernard, Great Pyrenees and the Newfoundland. When the dog is mature it has a lion-like appearance with a heavy mane-like ruff of fur around its head. The color and dark face of the mature dog also resembles a lion."

Four-year-old Moby, a/k/a Gouner Von der Heckenrose, took top honors as best of breed in the Detroit Kennel Club Show at Cobo Hall in Detroit. He also earned a second-place award in the sporting dog category and a third-place prize in the rare breeds event.

"As a result of the show, Moby will be featured on the cover of the American Rare Breed Association (ARBA) magazine," White said.

The Sumpter Township resident, who formerly owned Rottweilers, sought out a different breed when two of his dogs were killed five years ago.

"When I first moved out here, I had two Rottweilers. After they dug out of the yard and wandered away, they were shot by someone who thought they were a threat. I think, they were more thirsty and bewildered than anything else, but I understand that someone might be afraid of them," White said. "After owning those dogs, I just couldn't replace them with another Rottweiler. I had to get something totally different."

White looked through magazines and books and finally discovered a breeder in Illinois who had a Leonberger puppy.

White said the Leonbergers are naturally obedient and even-tempered dogs that make good family pets and are good with children. The adult dogs, who weigh 125 pounds or more, are also good protection, he said.

2 attempted abductions reported to police

By CRAIG GARRETT
ANP Staff Writer

Two attempted abductions have been reported to Westland police during the last 10 days.

Police Sgt. Laura Moore said an 8-year-old boy was walking near Lincoln Elementary School, 33800 Grand Traverse, around 3 p.m. March 19 when a man driving a red pickup truck approached the youngster, opened the vehicle door and asked he if needed a ride home. The boy declined and ran off. The child's parents reported the incident to police three days later.

The driver reportedly is a heavyset white man with a full black beard and greying hair. He also was wearing a T-shirt bearing a skull. The red truck has silver streaks running down the sides and sports dice on the rearview mirror. The numbers "36" were possibly on the vehicle license plate, Moore said.

A woman delivering newspapers in the Hines Park apartments early Wednesday told police she narrowly avoided a possible abduction after outrunning her attacker.

The 31-year-old woman said she had noticed a white man watching her deliver newspapers at the Cowan Ranch complex during the last month. The man, the woman told police, had peered around apartment building corners and observed her from a white four-door sedan.

Apparently the man returned around 5 a.m. Wednesday, the woman told police. Leaving an apartment building, she turned to see the man running at her full speed. The woman managed getting to her car just ahead of the man and lock the doors. The alleged attacker, the woman said, looked at her for several seconds and ran off.

The man was described as white, 6-feet tall with long hair. He was wearing a baseball cap and a multi-colored jacket.

Westland police are asking anyone with information to telephone 722-9600.

Witness recounts horror of motel massacre

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

An admitted drug addict recounted the terrifying events that ended in the slayings of three of her companions in an Inkster motel room last month.

Desoree Lynn Watkins, who survived the March 2 massacre at the Summit Lodge, said that about 11:30 p.m. four men, wearing dark clothing, sunglasses and hats, kicked down the door to room 226, ordered everyone on the floor at gunpoint, then killed her companions after they found that their victims didn't have any money.

Testifying in 22nd District Court before Judge Sylvia James, the 37-year-old Watkins told the court she scrambled under a table when the

"I looked around me. I could see Eric. I knew Eric was dead. But Denise (Dolphin) said to me 'Help me. Help me. I've been shot.'"

- Desoree Lynn Watkins

killers broke in and that action apparently saved her life.

However, when Wayne County assistant prosecutor Robert Donaldson asked Watkins if she could identify the three defendants - Malcolm Potts, Clyde Potts and Donnell Matthews, who were seated in the courtroom - the key witness in the triple homicide admitted "I'm not sure. They (the killers) did have glasses and hats on."

Malcolm Potts, 31, his nephew, Clyde, 17, Matthews, 19, and a 14-year-old juvenile are accused of premeditated and first-degree murders in the shooting deaths of two Westland men and a Garden City woman.

Killed in the motel room were Michael F. Torossian, who would have been 36 on March 30, and John E. Hines, 36, both of Westland. Also killed in the motel was Denise Lynn Dolphin, 36, of Garden City.

Breaking down in tears as she described the events during the evening of the murders, Watkings said that after the killers broke in they ordered Torossian to hand over his money and when Torossian replied that he didn't have any, they shot him.

Watkins said that Hines was in the bathroom and when he came out he begged for Watkins's life.

"Hines said, 'No, man, don't,'" and, in tears, Watkins said then "Boom, Boom, there were eight to 10 shots."

Asked by Donaldson what she did after the killers left the motel room, Watkins replied: "I looked around me. I could see Eric. I knew Eric was dead. But Denise (Dolphin) said to me 'Help me. Help me. I've been shot.'"

Dolphin was shot in the lower back, the fatal bullet penetrating her bowels.

Under cross-examination by Bill J. Winters, III, Malcolm Potts' attorney, Watkins admitted that she and her friends had gone to the motel room to smoke crack cocaine..

The prosecution presented testimony from two other witnesses who were female companions of the accused.

Both witnesses, Catherine Johnson, 17, and Kimmekio Chapman, 15, offered conflicting and confusing accounts of the evening of the murders.

Johnson became a "hostile witness" for the prosecution and was chastised by the judge on several occasions for her courtroom demeanor. She said that she had a friend of all the

Donnell Matthews

Clyde Potts

Malcolm Potts

defendants.

Johnson also placed the defendants at the murder scene but denied that she stated she knew who had weapons. Johnson repeatedly said that she "didn't know what happened. That was a month ago," although she had made a three-page statement to police to the contrary.

"Didn't you tell Sgt. McGruder (Inkster Detective John McGruder, who was in charge of the investigation) that they (defendants) talked about killing somebody?" Donaldson asked.

"Yes," replied Johnson.

"Didn't you state that Tony (defendant Malcolm Potts) came back in the room and put the gun on the bed?"

"I don't remember that," replied Johnson. "I am trying to block it out."

"We're you lying when you made the statements (to the police)," Donaldson asked. "You signed this, didn't you," showing Johnson her statement.

"Yes. I did."

Chapman told the court she heard shots and that had later learned "that some people got killed that night."

"I was kind of scared," Chapman added, but she insisted that she didn't see any weapons.

Donaldson called Detective Sgt. Charles Hines, who is no relation to the victim, and he told the court that after defendant, Malcolm Potts, was arrested and read his rights, he signed what amounted to a confession of the role he played in the triple slaying.

McGruder told the court that there were at least three weapons used in the killings. He found 22 caliber, 25 caliber and shotgun casings on the motel room floor.

After hearing the testimony, James ruled that there was sufficient evidence presented to the court to bound the three defendants over for trial in circuit court. She stressed that since the charges were first-degree murder, there would be no bonds.

The three defendants were ushered out of the courtroom and remanded to Wayne County Jail to await their arraignments on the charges. The arraignments on the information will occur at 9 a.m. April 7 at the Frank Murphy Hall of Justice in Detroit.

AUDIT

how long the actual audit would take. "I would like to think I would get it (the report) next week," he said last Tuesday, "but there is nothing concrete at this time that I will."

Szlinis was named to the 34th Court in 1989 replacing the retiring Judge James Stone. He was named presiding judge in January 1992.

Romulus Mayor Beverly

McAnally said, "Obviously the city is concerned...as it has a great impact on us." But the mayor denied asking for the audit or in any way spurring it, even though the city of Romulus owns the physical building in which the 34th District Court is housed.

McAnally admitted being informed of the call for the audit and the requests to have the two court officers exit their offices. She also revealed that the district court is seeking to amend the operating budget.

But officials from the communities the court serves said they hope to receive answers to the following questions after the audit is made public.

- Have purchases been made without competitive bidding?
- Are accounting procedures being used without adequate checks and balances?
- To what extent have court funds been used to pay for trips by judges?
- Have court auctions been scheduled so as to restrict public access to them?
- Are funds unaccounted for in court accounts?

Booker Dozier

When the Inkster Goodfellows decided last year that it was time to pull up stakes and close the doors for good because they lacked funds to continue their work, they found Booker Dozier's foot in that door.

"Hold on there," one could hear him say, "not so fast. There are some kids out there who are depending on you."

The 75-year-old Dozier rallied the forces of good and, with "the help of many giving people, we managed to raise money for the kids."

And, earlier this year when city officials said that they could not rationalize spending about $5,000 to sponsor the Memorial Day Parade, they didn't count on people like Booker Dozier.

The retired Wayne County employee again became a key player in collecting money for the parade.

In fact, Inkster Recreation officials said on Wednesday that feel that the fund drive has been very successful and "the parade is on for 1993."

And, a few years back, when a young man needed $100,000 for a heart transplant, then mayor, William Daniels, selected - you know who - Booker Dozier - to spearhead the drive. When it came time to pay the heart recipient's medical bills, the money was there.

It should not be a surprise to anyone that when The Associated Newspapers began its search for its Person of the Year the name of Booker Dozier constantly appeared in the Letters to the Editor.

"I am nominating Booker Dozier for the Person of the Year award," writes Theola Jones, "because he continues to demonstrate his concern and his love for the citizens of his community, over and over again. For over 40 years, Mr. Dozier has devoted his life to serving the youth, as well as, the elderly citizens of our city."

Born in Columbus, Ga., Booker Dozier's parents moved to Detroit in the early 1930s. Booker attended and graduated from Detroit Northern where he excelled in football, a sport that he later coached at Inkster High.

Mishap motivates couple to volunteer their services

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

Following a near fatal automobile accident with a drunk driver, Joyce and Harold Gant turned their experience into life-saving volunteerism.

Their participation in the Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) program prompted Michele Kubicz, executive director of the Wayne County Chapter, to nominate the Belleville couple to share the Person of the Year award. The Gants, who have donated many hours speaking to students and parents groups, appearing on cable programs and participating in the Red Ribbon Campaign, earned honors as runners-up in the competition.

The Gants, who own and operate A.J. Gant and Associates, a professional event planning and trade show decorating company, were injured in 1990 and have endured many surgeries and therapies since that time.

On March 6, 1990, a drunk driver crashed into the Gants on Second and Willis in downtown Detroit. The driver was traveling the wrong way on a one-way street with no headlights on and had no driver's license or insurance.

neck, according to the MADD official.

"It was only with the help of MADD that anything at all was done to the drunk driver. The man was not arrested or even ticketed even though he refused a breathalyzer test. After Gant tracked down the whereabouts of the drunk driver, he was brought to trial in the Wayne County 36th District Court," Kubicz said in her letter of nomination. "The drunk driver was given a suspended sentence and placed on probation and sent to an alcohol rehabilitation program. This was his fourth conviction."

Harold and Joyce Gant relieve their pain and frustration by being active in MADD. They speak frequently to convicted drunk drivers as part of the Victim Impact Panel. They also speak to high school students and to the general public in radio and television interviews to bring the message, "drinking and driving don't mix."

The Gants were instrumental in the formation and maintenance of an alternative form of drunk driving sentencing at the 34th District Court, which serves Romulus, Belleville, Van Buren Township, Sumpter Township and Huron Township.

Month after month, they share their story as injury victims with offenders in the hope of preventing another incident, Kubicz said.

"Whenever there is a special project, such as Red Ribbon, the Gants give 100 percent and more. Their organizational skills are exemplary and their professionalism and sincerity is known county wide," Kubicz said.

Harold Gant has served as first vice president of the Wayne County Chapter of MADD and Joyce Gant has served as special projects chairperson. They also will be involved in the Adopt-A-Highway program this spring as well as forming an injury support group in the county.

In addition to their involvement in MADD, he is chairman of the board of trustees of the Armenian Congregational Church of Greater Detroit.

Gene (Santa) Reaves

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

A Westland man, who has played the role of Santa Claus for more than 60 years, has been nominated for recognition for his work with retarded and needy children.

Earning an honorable mention in the Associated Newspapers-sponsored 1993 Person of the Year competition, Gene (Santa) Reaves will observe his 91st birthday on April 13. In observance of the event, Reaves has embarked on a new venture - a drive to provide Easter dolls for children.

"I have now expanded my helping of others to ensure that children will receive an Easter doll during the holidays," said Reaves, who dubbed himself Grandpa of the Easter Bunny.

During the past Christmas season and for six decades previously, Reaves has helped to provide dolls, mittens, scarves and other items for children during the holidays. He also has played the role of Santa Claus for retarded children and students in area schools.

Dorothy Smith, senior supervisor of Foster Grandparents in Detroit, noted that she has known Santa Reaves for more than 19 years.

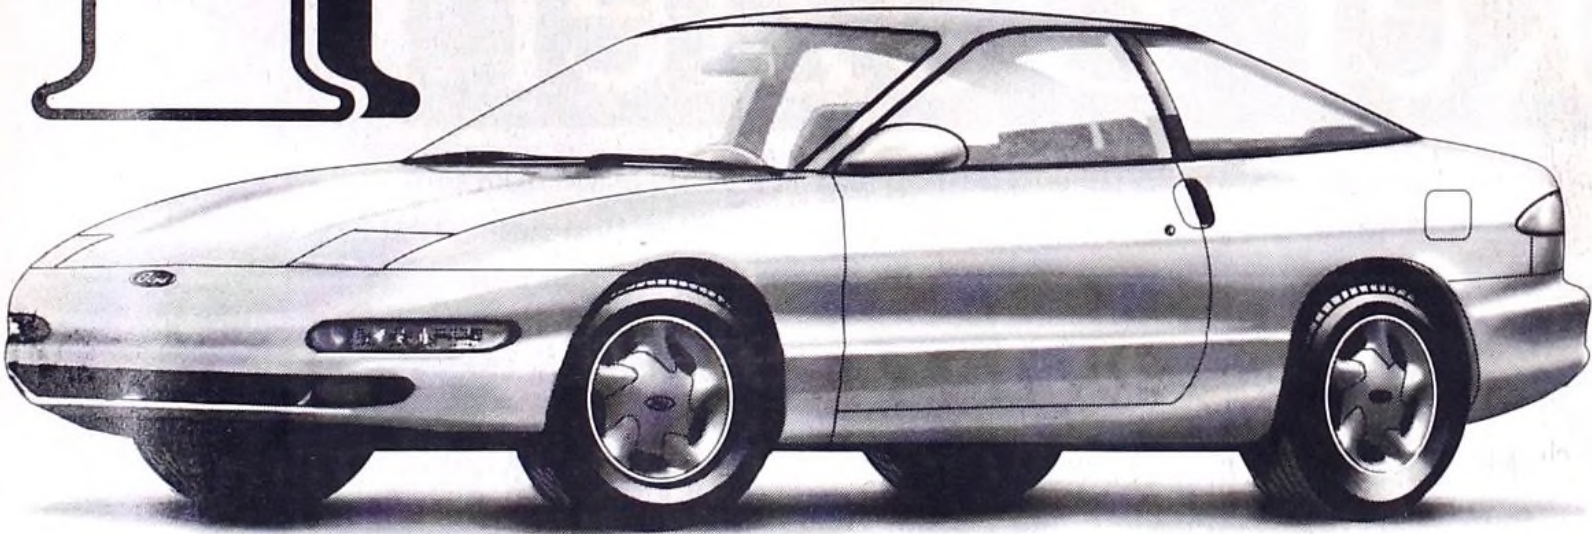

"When I first came to the program, I was told that he had been playing Santa Claus for the developmentally disabled children at Plymouth State Home for several years. I have been with the program for more than 19 years and during that time, I have seen him give his time and talents to handicapped children and adults in many ways," Smith said. "Every year at Christmas, we arranged a party for our grandparents and their 'children' to which Santa came with this bag of goodies - toys, treats, sweaters, hats and mittens - for the children and some kind of treat for the adults. He also became the Easter Bunny on many occasions and brought more seasonal items for the children. I know that he raises all the money for these items through donations to his Santa fund, and, I know, he dips into his own meager income when the donations are not up to expectations," Smith said.

New job assistance program will serve area unemployed

By AL POST
ANP Staff Writer

The jobless in western Wayne County have a new ally. Rhonda Johnson, a representative of Detroit Metro Job Pact, told a small gathering at the Norwayne Salvation Army in Westland last Wednesday "I'm going to try to find jobs for you—but don't sit on your hands waiting for me to do it!" Johnson, whose effort is under the human resource umbrella known as Michigan Employment Security Commission, revealed that the Detroit based program was expanding the coverage area to western Wayne County.

"We are not promising you full-time employment to start, we are trying to set up a core of casual labor jobs that possibly could lead to full time jobs," Johnson said.

The Job Pact representative explained many of her clients hadn't worked recently and in some rare cases had never worked.

Those attending the Westland seminar, however, did report they had past work experience, including one woman who was previously a health worker.

The importance of these casual labor jobs is that they provide those with no work or limited labor backgrounds, Johnson said, three important elements: a job base, job references and job experience.

Since many of those who Job Pact are aiding in Detroit have no vehicle or driver's license, "we provide free transportation to and from the job."

"Sometime in the near future, we hope to do that in western Wayne County also," she explained, "but we don't have the drivers right now."

"As in any generation, Johnson explained, "the number of and salaries paid for various jobs are based on the law of supply and demand."

Since southern Michigan is still involved in an "employers' market" salaries are still below average, Johnson explained. "In some technical areas," she continued, "employers offer jobs at several dollars less the normal hourly rate and the positions are accepted because the employees need something beyond unemployment assistance."

"We don't even know if the jobs are out there, (in Wayne, Westland, Inkster, Romulus or Belleville) she said, "but we will be knocking on doors and calling as many employers as possible in coming months."

She also urged area employers to call her general office (876-JOBS) if they have any jobs for area unemployed.

In the meantime, Johnson urged seminar participants to try some non-traditional job search procedures such as "making cold calls at job sites, volunteering for a non-paid job at a business or organization and telling as many people as possible you want a job."

Johnson agreed to a request by Salvation Army commander

Lt. Donna Price and will return to the Westland area in June for another seminar. Price, who assumed the commander role at Norwayne in January, told the group that the local Salvation Army Corps has decided that aiding the unemployed in the area will be one of its key outreach programs.

Don McGee, MESC media relations representative, gave the following 1992 jobless averages for area:

• Wayne County, 10.2 percent or 93,825 people.

• Inkster, 11.4 percent, or 1,500.

• Romulus, 7.9 percent or 850.

• Wayne, 6 percent or 550.

• Westland, 5.1 percent or 230.

Why the hectic schedule in his so-called senior years?

"Because we were put here by our good Lord to help others, especially to help the children," Dozier replied. "If we don't accept that responsibility now, what will we say when we stand before our Creator?"

The new Bonus Lotto!

It's an all new game with bigger jackpots and a bonus ball that gives you more chances to win than ever before!

More money than ever before!

Bonus Lotto starts with a guaranteed $4 million jackpot - and rolls over by $4 million every time!

More chances to win!

Players win the Grand Prize by matching the 6 numbers drawn from 47. BUT, if you don't match all six, there are still more chances to win. Because a 7th ball is then drawn - called the Bonus Ball. The Bonus Ball gives players even more chances to win more cash prizes. Here's how:

Match all 6 numbers drawn and you win the Jackpot!

Match 5 of the 6 numbers drawn plus the bonus ball and you win $50,000!

Match 4 of the 6 numbers drawn plus the bonus ball and you win $1,000!

Match 3 of the 6 numbers drawn plus the bonus ball and you win $100!

Match 2 of the 6 numbers drawn plus the bonus ball and you win $4.

$2 is all it takes!

Each Bonus Lotto wager costs $2.00 and is valid for the next Lotto drawing unless multiple drawings are selected. If multiple draws are played, a player can play up to 20 consecutive draws.

One drawing, once a week!

Bonus Lotto drawings are now held just once a week - every Saturday at 7:30 p.m. on the Megabucks television show. Check your local television listings for the television station in your area.

Former area resident is Oscar hopeful

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Feature Editor

A former Westland resident will be rubbing elbows with the stars tomorrow night as he anxiously awaits the results of the Academy Award balloting.

Doug Chiang, a John Glenn High School and William D. Ford Vocational Technical Center graduate, was the art director of the team nominated for special effects for the mesmerizing computer animation in Death Becomes Her which featured Goldie Hawn, Meryl Streep and Bruce Willis.

Chiang works for George Lucas' Industrial Light and Magic. His special effects talents have been seen in other Hollywood films including Ghost and Terminator II.

"It's been quite an exciting year for me. I enjoy taking an idea and going as far as I can with it."

- Doug Chiang

Chiang, who now lives in San Francisco, recently informed the Associated Newspapers that he is very pleased with the nomination.

"It's been quite an exciting year for me," Chiang said. "That movie was wonderful to work on. I enjoy taking an idea and going as far as I can with it."

Chiang first attracted public attention with a unique animated film which had quarrelsome little space creatures that looked suspiciously like ping pong balls, according to his former Voc/Tech media production teacher John Prusak.

"His film was a winner at the Michigan Student and Film and Video Festival in the late 1970s when he was about 13 years old," Prusak said.

"Mental Block, a film produced while he was a student, earned him a new car in the Nissan/Focus Film Festival."

Chiang attended UCLA after graduating from high school where he continued his studies in film.

"Once I got out of school I started working on commercials for Digital Productions," Chiang said. "I started freelancing on various projects. One of them was Back to the Future II."

In Death Becomes Her Goldie Hawn and Meryl Streep fight for the same man (Bruce Willis). In one scene Streep blasts a hole in Hawn with a shotgun. Hawn doesn't die because she drank a potion which gave her unending life.

Hawn walks around the room yelling at Streep with a hole in her stomach through which the other side of the room can be seen. Chiang said it took a bit of digital maneuvering to attain that special effect.

"That was a digital composition which involved plate photography," Chiang said. "The hole itself was cut out with computer graphics."

Chiang said he is one of six art directors on the Industrial Light staff which produced more than a dozen special effects for the Death flick.

"I've always enjoyed movies even when I was a kid," Chiang said. "When I met John (Prusak), it just enhanced my love for film even more."

Chiang would like to challenge producing and directing a movie on his own one day. Prusak describes his former student as very gifted.

"He had very little wasted movement," Prusak said. "Whenever he got an idea, he knew exactly what he wanted to do with it."

Prusak is not only a film instructor, he is also a filmmaker. He has the students assist him with producing short feature films which are sent to various festivals for competitions.

"I'm a filmmaker that teaches," Prusak said. "My goal is to be a mentor to the students. I do want to make more feature films in the near future, but I love teaching."

Prusak produced and directed Hefty's which took more than 10 years to put together. He has been teaching in the Wayne-Westland School District for more than 21 years.

"I am really proud of Doug's accomplishments," Prusak said. "It's very rewarding to see your former students achieve so much success."

Warm weather signals start of dangerous tornado season

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

As warm weather approaches, the threat of tornadoes emerges for Michigan residents.

In 1992, 21 tornadoes were reported in the state, causing some $6 million in damages, but no loss of life.

"Every household, school and business should have a plan just in case a tornado strikes in the area," said National Weather Service (NWS) meteorologist Bill Babcock.

To focus attention on tornado safety planning, Gov. John Engler has declared March 28 through April 3 as Tornado Safety Week in Michigan.

Tornadoes generally develop from severe thunderstorms. Although not all severe thunderstorms spawn tornadoes, twisters are more likely to occur when there is unseasonably warm and humid air at the surface of the earth and cold air at middle atmospheric levels, accompanied by strong, upper-level jet stream winds.

In Michigan, this clash of air masses is more likely to occur in the spring in the southern lower part of the state, according to the NWS. Tornadoes can hit any time of the day or night in almost any month of the year. However, most occur in April through July during the late afternoon and evening hours.

Spring events spark season

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

After a too-long winter season, area residents are anxious to welcome warm weather with special events and activities.

Among the activities slated are flower and garden shows and spring museum events.

Greenfield Village welcomes spring this week as 80 historic buildings re-open after a winter break.

"The new season brings fresh opportunities to rediscover the traditions of ingenuity and resourcefulness," said Wes Hardin, manager of daily programs. "The unique combination of historic structures provide an ideal setting for stories of the men and women who transformed this country from a rural, agricultural society to an urban, industrialized nation."

Among the attractions are the Menlo Park laboratory of Thomas Edison, the Wright Cycle Shop, the Cotswold forge, the Daggett farmhouse and the Mattox house. Demonstrations of glass-blowing, printing, tinsmithing and pottery making are presented daily at the village.

Annual Spring Farm Days are slated on April 22, 23, 24 and 25 at Greenfield Village.

In adjacent Henry Ford Museum, an on-going exhibit, Made in America, features the actual 18th-, 19th and 20th-century machines that transformed Americans' lives. More than 1,500 artifacts plus hands-on activities, film and video presentations are in the exhibit.

The University of Michigan Mattaei Botanical Gardens are celebrating spring with A Walk on the Wild Side through today.

Sponsors of the 4th annual Ann Arbor Flower and Garden Show invite guests to "leave winter behind and take a walk on the wild side, while collecting new ideas for patio, balcony and small space gardening."

The show will feature a live butterfly garden, more than one acre of professionally designed landscapes, miniature floral arrangements, unique bird houses and orchids and botanical oddities at the flower show, located at the Washtenaw Farm Council grounds, 5055 Ann Arbor-Saline Road, Ann Arbor.

Annually, Michigan experiences an average of 16 tornadoes. Since 1950 237 people have been killed by twisters in the state.

When a tornado watch is announced, residents should gather a first-aid kit, flashlight and portable radio, and stay turned to their local radio or television station for updates on the weather. A tornado warning means that a tornado has actually been sighted and everyone in the should take immediate precautions.

The following safety tips have been issued by the weather service:

- Prepare for a tornado by having emergency supplies on hand (battery-operated radio, flashlight, fresh batteries), know the location of designated shelter areas and plan ahead to be sure that everyone on the household knows in advance where to go and what to do.

- When a tornado threatens stay away from doors, windows and outside walls, and protect your head. In homes and small buildings, go to the basement or to an interior part on the lowest level and get under something sturdy. In schools, hospitals and public places, move to a designated shelter area (interior hallways on the lowest level are the best). In mobile homes or vehicles, leave them and go to the nearest shelter. If there is no shelter, lie in the nearest ditch and shield your head with your arms.

- After a tornado strikes, inspect your property for damage (electrical problems and gas leaks), secure your property from further damage or theft, stay out of damaged buildings until you are sure they are safe and check food supplies to be sure particles of glass or debris are not in them. Use only approved or chlorinated supplies of drinking water.

Acura ranked best overall line

Honda Acura Division spokesmen announced recently that for the third consecutive year Acura has been ranked the best overall car line in the J.D. Powers and Associates Vehicle Performance Index (VPI) Study. The study is a measure of long-term reliability and customer satisfaction as it determines how well a car performs over a period of three years.

Acura out-performed such luxury brands as Mercedes-Benz, BMW, Lincoln and Cadillac. As the top-ranked car in VPI, Acura has again distinguished itself from other automotive lines by exceeding owner expectations after three years of ownership.

"Many automobiles represent luxury and performance in the showroom," said Richard Thomas, executive vice president, Acura Division. "For the third year in a row, the VPI study has proven that Acura automobiles continue to exceed their owner's expectations long after the first impression is made."

The three-year stage of ownership criteria of the VPI study provides the most appropriate time frame to assess levels of customer satisfaction, by offering a realistic look at the factual ownership experience.

The 1993 study results named Acura as number one, followed by Nissan, Toyota, Honda, Buick, Cadillac, Mercedes and BMW. Acura had an index rating of 144, far above the industry average of 119 and substantially above the number two-ranked manufacturer at 135 index.

In conducting this survey, J.D. Power tabulated information from 21,634 owners of 1989 vehicles. In all, a total of 146 different models from 32 manufacturers were represented. Most of these automobiles had been driven between 40,000 and 60,000 miles, were beyond manufacturer warranty and would have already surpassed the stage of major parts replacement such as tires, shocks and general tune-up repairs. A number one VPI ranking for three consecutive years solidifies the Acura reputation, company officials said, for quality and reliability.

"For the third year in a row, the VPI study has proven that Acura automobiles continue to exceed their owner's expectations long after the first impression is made."

- Richard Thomas

The 1993 Acura recently topped Mercedes and BMW to be named top of the line by a J.D. Powers survey.
